WAKE ME WHEN IT'S OVER

The trouble with early morning classes is that you're too sleepy. At late afternoon classes you're too logy. At late morning classes you're too hungry. At early morning classes you're too sleepy. Certainly, if you have a class at every hour, you can decide whether you want to be too hungry or sleepy: either way, while you're eating or sleeping.

Classes while eating are a simple matter. Just have a lecture while the eaters eat. Just look out for noisy food. I mean who can hear a lecturer lecture when everybody is crunching nuts or munching like that? Serve quiet stuff—like anchovy paste on a doughnut, or steaming bowls of bouillabaisse.

Now let us turn to the problem of learning while sleeping.

First, can it be done?

Yes, it can. Psychologists have proved that the brain is definitely able to assimilate information during sleep. Take, for instance, a recent experiment conducted by a leading Eastern university (Stanford). A small tape recorder was placed under the pillow of the subject, a freshman named Wrobert Wright. When Wrobert was last asleep, the recorder was turned on softly, all through the night. The tapes recorded three statements in Wrobert's slumbering ear:

1. Herbert Spencer lived to the age of 109. What is he called?
2. The banana plant is not a tree but a large perennial herb.
3. The Archduke Ferdinand was assassinated in 1914 at Sarajevo by a young nationalist named Milka Cvetanin, who has been called "The Trigger of World War I."

When Wrobert awoke in the morning, the psychologists said to him, "Herbert Spencer lived to the age of 109. What is he called?"

Wrobert promptly answered, "Perennial Herb."

Next they asked him, "What has Milka Cvetanin been called?"

Wrobert replied, "Perennial Serb."

Finally they said, "Is the banana plant a tree?"

Wrobert answered, "No, it is a perennial herb."

Moreover, said Wrobert, "Personna is available not only in the Double Edge style blade, but also in the Injector style blade."

"Great halls of fire," said the psychologists.

Wrobert smiled and said, "I don't know too much about bananas. But if you guys want any information about razor blades, I'm your man."

"What about bananas,

"can you tell us a blade that shaves closely and cleanly without nicking, pricking, scratching, scraping, or cutting, grinding, fooling, or Sensing?"

"Yes, I can," said Wrobert. "Personna's Stainless Steel Blades. Not only does Personna give you a true luxury shave, but it gives you legs and gams and bams and barrels of true luxury shaves—each one nearly as truly luxurious as the first."

"And lastly?" asked the psychologists.

Wrobert smiled and said, "Personna is available not only in the Double Edge style blade, but also in the Injector style blade."

"Great halls of fire," said the psychologists.

"I know guys who don't rush to your dealer and get some Personna at once," said Wrobert.

"We are class of psychologists, twinking, but these incomings we have to do first."

Whereupon they awarded Wrobert an honorary L.L.B. (Lawyer of Luxury Blades) degree and then, hitting arms, they sang and danced and bopped for apples till the classmie had turned to embers.

Catholic Worker editor speaks on peace, poverty

By Steve Keane
Miss Dorothy Day, editor of the Catholic Worker, addressed more than one hundred members of the MIT community in the Saik of Puerto Rico Wednesday evening. Presenting an unusual analysis of Communist and Catholicism, Miss Day definitely discussed "Poverty and the Catholic Work- er."
