'Juliet' is bizarre but captivating

By Kyle Nixon

Most movies are in color as an advertisement. The color adds 'spectacle' for Hollywood movies. But for Federico Fellini's first color movie, the facts, the whites, the blacks play an integral part of the movie. Remembering '8½,' the audience again sees the character costumes wearing pure white against the somber reds ranging from red to sinister black.

'Juliet of the Spirits,' though, has far more to offer than brilliant and brilliantly used colors. Fellini's wife, Giulietta Masina, plays the role of a housewife afraid of losing her husband. The plot begins, and Giulietta's husband, a wealthy businessman, has fallen in love with a younger and more beautiful woman. It is Giulietta's visions and dreams brought on by her fears of losing her husband that give real meaning to the movie.

Bizarre Images

Human flesh and animals crowd together. Giulietta's visions reflect the dead barge she loves to sit on. A world surrounded by lies and insincerity. Giulietta's spirits exist both in her mind and her real life. Her friends are phony and live only for pleasure on the flesh.

A recurrent theme of Fellini's appears in 'Juliet of the Spirits,' the liechness and repression is stilled by the Church. Giulietta cannot be released from her evil brimbals to the observer's hairs as it is in the church.
