'The MIT Gilbert and Sullivan Society is presenting 'Pirates of Pensance' in Kresge Auditorium this week. It is directed by Nancy Ellen Fitch, with John Rainier as music director and William Grossman conducting. The society is presenting 'Pirates' as an Italian opera since the scene is Sullivan's closest approach to the classic Italian form.

Two of the leads, Lori Edwards and Randy Soder as Frederic, are making their Gilbert and Sullivan debuts with this production. Other stars: Martyn Howarth as Drury, Ron Mallet as the Major-General, Norm Brilliant as the pirate King, Harry Rusin as the sergeant, and Ewry Goldenberg as Samuel, have been in the Society for previous shows.

"Pirates" is the story of Frederic, a boy whose sense of duty is paramount. As a pirate, he leaves the band to marry Mabel, the ward of Major- General Stanley. Finding that he is still bound as a pirate, he reluctantly leaves Mabel to return to the pirates. Frederic appears with the pirates to kill the Major-General for the crime of a white lie. An encounter with the police, with both sides on their toes begging forgiveness, follows, and then all falls happily.

The Society urges everyone to attend the performances, which are Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $1.50, and many reservations are still available for Thursday.
