International dignitaries attend ceremonies

(Continued from Page 1)

He holds doctoral degrees from Carnegie Institute of Technology in 1939 and Boston University in 1943, and has been a visiting professor at MIT's Department of Electrical Engineering.

Delegates not strangers

Many official delegates have had previous MIT connections as students, lecturers, visiting professors, or faculty members.

President H. Gaylord Bullard of Carnegie Institute of Technology and President Albert Bush of MIT will be representatives by former presidents. The residual American and 31 foreign universities, colleges, and societies will have as their delegates vice presidents, presidents, governors, presidents, faculty members and official dignitaries.

Gov. Volpe to be present

Governor John A. Volpe will represent the National Academy of Sciences; President Eliot of Harvard's President James Naughton will represent the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, founded in 1780; former presidents and the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society of Metals will be represented by their president, Stewart G. Flascher, President Frederick Burdick will represent the American Council of Learned Societies; President Ad- ministrator will represent the American Mathematical Society, and President Frederick Selig will represent the National Academy of Sciences.

Other heads of foreign universities present will be: Dr. Fred- rich-Wilhelm Gandlach, rector of the Technical University of Berlin; President Claude T. Blaisdell, president of the University of Toronto; Digna Horacio, rector of the Ethnological Museum of Athens, Greece; Dr. Fotis Oikonomou, of the Polytechnic Institute of Athens, Greece; Dr. Robert F. Goheen, president of the University of Michigan, State University of New York, and the University of New York at Buffalo and the University of Alaska will be represented by former presidents. The residual American and 31 foreign universities, colleges, and societies will have as their delegates vice presidents, presidents, governors, presidents, faculty members and official dignitaries.

(Continued from Page 1)

Precisely what things depend on what you have in mind. Whatever it is, Old Spice LIME can help.

Colony College, College University, Amherst College, Randolph College, Radcliffe office of Management, representing the York, president of the United States, represent President Johnson to be present.

The remaining eight oldest US universities in the US will have delegates in the procession, several in the persons of the president. With Harvard's President Pusey marching with ceremony principal, nary delegates will be the delivery section will be the nation's oldest school, the College of William and Mary, founded in 1632 and represented by Dean W. Malcolm Jones.

The remaining eight oldest US universities in the US will have delegates in the procession, several in the persons of the president. With Harvard's President Pusey marching with ceremony principal, the delivery section will be the nation's oldest school, the College of William and Mary, founded in 1632 and represented by Dean W. Malcolm Jones.

The remaining eight oldest US universities in the US will have delegates in the procession, several in the persons of the president. With Harvard's President Pusey marching with ceremony principal, the delivery section will be the nation's oldest school, the College of William and Mary, founded in 1632 and represented by Dean W. Malcolm Jones.

The remaining eight oldest US universities in the US will have delegates in the procession, several in the persons of the president. With Harvard's President Pusey marching with ceremony principal, the delivery section will be the nation's oldest school, the College of William and Mary, founded in 1632 and represented by Dean W. Malcolm Jones.

The remaining eight oldest US universities in the US will have delegates in the procession, several in the persons of the president. With Harvard's President Pusey marching with ceremony principal, the delivery section will be the nation's oldest school, the College of William and Mary, founded in 1632 and represented by Dean W. Malcolm Jones.

The remaining eight oldest US universities in the US will have delegates in the procession, several in the persons of the president. With Harvard's President Pusey marching with ceremony principal, the delivery section will be the nation's oldest school, the College of William and Mary, founded in 1632 and represented by Dean W. Malcolm Jones.

The remaining eight oldest US universities in the US will have delegates in the procession, several in the persons of the president. With Harvard's President Pusey marching with ceremony principal, the delivery section will be the nation's oldest school, the College of William and Mary, founded in 1632 and represented by Dean W. Malcolm Jones.

The remaining eight oldest US universities in the US will have delegates in the procession, several in the persons of the president. With Harvard's President Pusey marching with ceremony principal, the delivery section will be the nation's oldest school, the College of William and Mary, founded in 1632 and represented by Dean W. Malcolm Jones.