By Paul Linsey

The makers of 'Dead Heat On A Harpy-Go-Round' have decided to give the same old story another go around. It is the perfect execution of another perfect crime done in James Bond modish.

Rothfield the International Bank of Commerce at Los Angeles International Airport is not easy, especially when the airport is swarming with police because the Soviet Premier is arriving, but a Frankfurt consultant headed by super cop artist Ely Kitch (J. James Coburn) demonstrates once again that bank robbery is only a sophisticated form of shoplifting.

The movie proves quite unequivocally that the real problem in bank robbery is in the money necessary to buy the bank place, a problem which requires Coburn to seduce at least four women.

Not having the good looks, good taste, and money that James Bond does, Coburn appropriately restricts himself to sleep-in-masks. Raising money is not a problem for Coburn alone; it is also a problem for the viewer. For better than half the movie, one has absolutely no idea why Coburn is trying to raise $78,000. In fact, for almost half the movie there is little indication that Coburn is doing anything except carrying on in the movie. The almost humorous machinery of the robbery leads one to the inevitable conclusion that women are as mean as men usually achieve their ends.

Charities Drive begins; Chairman Nichols sets year's goal at $2,000

The annual Charities Drive, sponsored by TCA will be conducted next week, October 31-November 4. Donations will be collected within the living groups by the representatives of the TCA. In addition a booth will be set up in Building 19.

The drive gives members of the MIT community a chance to make a single donation which can be applied to any charitable organization they designate. The principal beneficiaries of the drive are the United Fund, the World Service Organization and the Cancer Foundation. The United Fund is a local organization which collects and distributes funds for many charities. This eliminates the need and the inconvenience of individual drives throughout the entire Massachusetts Bay area.

Charities Drive chairman Jay Nichols '68 has set a goal of $2000 for this year's drive. This is more than double the amount collected in last year's drive. In view of the MIT students' increased awareness of social problems, Nichols expressed confidence that the goal would be realized. Anyone interested in aiding in the Charities Drive should contact Nichols through the TCA office or at Theta No. 5239.

The intramural bridge tournament opens November 5

The intramural bridge tournament will begin next month. The competition, sanctioned by the American Contract Bridge League, awards both trophies and master points to the winners.

Teams consisting of 4, 5, or 6 players will play 25 boards of duplicate bridge. Rosters and a few dollar entry fee must be turned in Joe House or Jeff Pundit Nov. 5.

IM Bridge tournament opens November 5

The intramural bridge tournament will begin next month. The competition, sanctioned by the American Contract Bridge League, awards both trophies and master points to the winners.

Teams consisting of 4, 5, or 6 players will play 25 boards of duplicate bridge. Rosters and a few dollar entry fee must be turned in Joe House or Jeff Pundit Nov. 5.

Even When She Answers, He Still Gets the Busy Signal.

DEAR REB:

Lately, every time I call my girl, she's either "not in" or "not interested." Last week I called her 23 times and couldn't even make a coffee date. The trouble started when she started dating a guy who owns a Dodge Coronet. Now she goes to parties with him, dances, football games, etc. Do you think I should call her again, or should I forget her and break her heart?

BAD CONNECTIONS

DEAR BAD CONNECTIONS:

I think your next call should be to your Dodge Dealer. Then make her another break. Ask her to go for a ride in your new Coronet. I think she'll fall in love with you.

Sincerely,
Reb.