Four Lives in the Bohemian Scene, by A. B. Spellman, is the account of four black writers, Ornette Coleman, Herbie Nichols, Jackett McRae, and Charles Taylor, and the tragic odds against artistic success in the "bohemian"—what the author defines as "that peculiar cross-pollination of show business and serious music that has developed since the heyday of the 'acelet society.'" Much of the book is told in the musicians' own words, taken from taped interviews with Mr. Spellman. This book is also a devotional book where not only the "entertainers," and the "That's jazz or music," says Mr. Spellman, "what ya-mean—much of the book is told in the musicians' own words, taken from taped interviews with Mr. Spellman. This book is also a devotional book where not only the "entertainers," and the "That's jazz or music," says, "you can call his bluff."

Exhibition, sale of prints held by Arts Committee

By Sue Downs
A Christmas exhibition and sale of original prints will be sponsored by the MIT Visual Arts, scheduled in the Hayden Gallery starting Wednesday and lasting through Friday, December 28.

The prints, coming from New York and Boston galleries, will be sold at reduced prices, with discounts ranging from 10¢ to 25¢. The gallery displays a variety of posters, including serigraphs and etchings by such well-known artists as Roy Lichtenstein and Robert Motherwell.

The exhibition will be open Monday, Tuesday and Fridays from 10 to 4 p.m., and Wednesdays and Thursdays from 10 to 6.

A blindfold test for beer.

If you're under 25 with sideburns to burn, you need this dial.

Rutgers' civil rights attorney to speak in Boston Tuesday at 8

Professor Arthur Kinyo, of Rutgers, noted civil rights and civil liberties attorney, will speak at the Arlington Street Church, corner of Arlington and Boylston Streets in Boston Tuesday at 8 p.m., who was recently appointed by the House Un-American Activities Committee to the Senate in 1962. He will speak on the topic, "The Role of the American Lawyer in the Struggle Against Injustice and Repression." Speaking with Kinyo will be Jerome Greenbaum, chairman of the Committee on Political Action, and visiting professor of political science at the University of Chicago.

If you're under 25, chances are you've got sideburns to burn. Longer than your dad's, shorter than some, but highly likely to grow out of control between trips to the barber.

If you use the new REMINGTON® Selectro® shaver, they won't. And your cheeks won't be left with blood-stained slits, either.

Here's why.
The REMINGTON 200 Selectro® shaver has a dial with a special position just to trim sideburns. Click to number 5, and out comes the biggest pop-up trimmer ever.

It's designed to trim sideburns straight, even and neat—without the risk of bloodletting, cheek slits or pain. It keeps them looking just as you want them to. Any style, any length, tapered, angled or curved.

The trimmer works well on the back of the neck, too. All you need is a second mirror and in a flash last week's scrappy growth is gone.

There's a special position just for your neck, too. Number 1. It's designed to protect the tender skin of your neck—the skin most shaving devices cut, scratch, reddened and irritate.

The rest of your face needs this dial, too. Use it

The REMINGTON 200 Selectro® shaver will keep your skin from being chewed up and turned crusty by shaving devices. Just turn the dial to positions 1, 3 and 4, and the cutters raise up and adjust to your beard. You'll get a clean, smooth, close shave, without the risk of bloodletting, cheek slits or pain. It keeps them looking just as you want them to. Any style, any length, tapered, angled or curved.
