If you're under 25 with sideburns to burn, you need this dial.

Just turn the dial to positions 2, 3 and 4, the cutters raise up and adjust to your beard. You'll get a clean, close shave, tough beard or not-so-tough, whether you're just touching up your lip or shaving your whole face for the first time in three days. Because the REMINGTON 200 shaver has a bigger shaving surface, you don't rub and scrub your skin raw red to get a close shave.

Click to 6, and the side panels flip open for the easiest cleaning in electric shaver history.

The price. The good news is that it costs less than most ordinary shavers. The bad news is so vague that it imposes no imposition as a condition of employment a violation of the guarantee of the due process of law.

The REMINGTON 200 Selectro Shaver

Don't just sit there, Wallace Middendorp. Make a noise. Or drink Sprite, the noisy, soft drink.

If you're under 25, chances are you've got sideburns to burn. Longer than your dad's, shorter than some, but highly likely to grow out of control between trips to the barber.

If you use the new REMINGTON® 200 Selectro® shaver, they won't. And your cheeks won't be left with bloodstained slits, either.

This is why.

The REMINGTON 200 Selectro shaver has a dial with a special position just to trim sideburns. Click to number 3, and out comes the biggest pop-up trimmer ever. It's designed to trim sideburns straight, even and neat—without the risk of bloodstidding, cheek slits or pain. It keeps them looking just as you want them to. Any style, any length, tapered, angled or curved.

The trimmer works well on the back of the neck, too. All you need is a second mirror and in a flash last week's scraggly growth is gone.

There's a special position just for your neck, too. Number 1. It's designed to protect the tender skin of your neck—the skin most shaving devices cut, scratch, redden and irritate.

The rest of your face needs this dial, too—to protect it.

The REMINGTON 200 shaver will keep your skin from being chewed up and turned crusty by shaving.

Statute, issue both vague

(Continued from Page 1)

(Continued from Page 1)

For his refusal to sign the oath, the attorney General's Office took over and prepared a brief in defense of the oath's constitutionality. Further, the Massachusetts Civil Liberties Union, as a friend of the court, has contributed its own brief—an attack on the oath following a different viewpoint than that of Atty. Berlin.

Legally, the issue is the question of vague language in the oath itself. Pedlosky's brief argues that the oath's 'indiscrimination and threat of criminal sanctions makes its imposition as a condition of employment a violation of the guaran-

Local instructors discuss scientific studies abroad council of professors and students, and this arrangement "gives in the government's hair." When the military took over in June, Dr. Ambrose was teaching at the University of Bonn Airline. The universities were put under the control of the Military Interior, a change in autonomy which, according to Ambrose, could mean only destruction for art, are "happy and well the universities. (See The Tech, fed, so 'why not?'"

(Continued from Page 1)

Don't just sit there, Wallace Middendorp. Make a noise. Or drink Sprite, the noisy, soft drink.

Wallace Middendorp. Sat near

What did you do when Joe (Boxcar) Brescopolis was kicked off the football team just because he flashed six out of four of his Social Security card?

What did you do, Wallace Middendorp?

And when the school newspaper's editors resigned in protest because the Chancellor wouldn't allow the publication of certain salacious portions of "Night in a Girl's Dormitory" you just sat? Didn't you?

You've made a mockery of your life, Wallace Middendorp! You're a vegetable. Protestant, Wallace Middendorp. Take a stand. Make a noise! Or drink Sprite, the noisy soft drink. Open a bottle of Sprite at the next campus social—let it fiz and bubble to the maxes.

Let its funky carbonation sweep through the hairs of your larynx. Let it coat, tingling, embittering and affect the pointy with excitement.

Do these things, Wallace Middendorp. Do these things, and what big corporation is going to hire you?