When Crunch left his home in Cut and Shoot, Pa., to go off to a prominent midwestern university (Florida State) he was to his sweetheart, a wholesome country lass named Mildred Rosier, "My dear, though I am far away in college, I will love you always, and I may not be there often, but I will never look at another girl. If I do, may my eyeballs wither and wither, may my veins writhe like adders, may my every-press slacks go baggy!"

Then he clasped Mildred to his bosom, flicked some hayseed from her hair, planted a final kiss upon her fragrant young skull, and went away, meaning with all his heart to be faithful.

But on the very first day of college he met a new girl named Irmgard from the city who was studied with culture like a ham with cloves. She knew the complete works of Franz Kafka, she sang solo in recitals, she wore a black leather jacket with an original Goya on the back.

Well sir, Crunch took one look and his jaw dropped and his nostrils pulsed like a bellows and his kneecaps turned to rubber. Never had he beheld such sophistication, such intellect, such savoir faire. Not, mind you, that Crunch was a dolt. He was, to be sure, a country boy, but he had a head on his shoulders, believe you me. Take, for instance, his choice of razor blades. Crunch always shaved with Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades. And if that doesn't tell you how to ride backwards on his skateboards one-legged, I'm sure you are, or how'd you get out of high school without to Cut and Shoot, Pa., and looked Mildred straight in the eye, "I'm a boy. I love another. You can hit me in the stomach all your might and like that, and then be went back to his dormitory and -you'll get a pack of Personnas before another sun has set. Furthermore, Personnas are available both for shaving, scrap the scrape, negate the nick, peel the pull, and in luxury shaving—Burma-Shave. It comes in mental or regular; it makes rings around any other lather."
