Throat ailment to kill coeds: kiss-in and drink-in held

Rumors were rampant this past February among coeds at Ohio State University. The incident started when they heard a local radio announcer, President Kennedy's death, said that 20 per cent of Ohio State's coeds would be dead by March 1, due to some strange throat ailment. When the school's newspaper reported the story, several girls were killed, with girls getting their throats checked for the mysterious disease.

This proved to be a rumor. Now that March 1 is past, the coeds of OSU seem to be safe from harm.

Turtle contest

"One of the biggest of tradition college events" will take place on May 6 at Rhode Island University. It is the Turtle Internation. As an annual turtle race, the proceeds of which will go to the Muscular Distrophy Fund. According to the rules of the contest, each turtle must have a name and must be one more inch in shell size. Also, no artificial aids, such as turtle skates, are allowed. The official race course will be a 35 foot long inclined ramp with a trough of water at the end ("an incentive"). Last year's winning school was Tufts but this year's word is that the Free University of Berlin is the school to beat.

Rolf Cahn shows new guitar style

Guitarist Rolf Cahn will make an appearance Saturday at Jordan Hall, in a concert sponsored by Jack Myers of the Turk's Head Coffeehouse. Influenced by exposure to such diverse musical forms as the flamenco music of Spain and the blues of the deep South and Chicago, he developed a style which is uniquely his own.

The concert will serve to "cover the Kingdom of the Blues and the Empire of Flamenco" for the youth of Boston.
