Jay Peak has short lines; forty trails draw skiers

By Andy Seidenfeld

One of the advantages of being in Boston during the winter is that there is a large variety of ski areas not too far away. Most skiers usually prefer not to travel too far, so they generally end up skiing the most crowded slopes. Nevertheless, as far as most accommodations go, more time is spent on line than in schussing downhill. On the other hand, there is a large ski area far away from Boston with very short lift lines even on weekends. Jay Peak enters primarily to Montreal skiers—you even get a chance to practice your French—and it offers a wide variety of trails and slopes.

Facilities

Covering two mountains, with a vertical drop of a little over 2000 feet, over forty trails and a new tramway, Jany Peak has quite a bit to offer the avid ski bum. Having only sampled a small part of slopes, Needless to add, as far as the hard way is concerned, I expect to issue a poll for its members on their preferences.

On March 15, at 2:50 p.m. in the Student Center the class Executive Committee will meet with anyone interested in working on JP. Anyone with ideas or questions may call a member of the Executive before the meeting.

Thursday is the last day to order class rings. Orders will be taken in the lobby of Building 10, 9:30 to 4:30.

Sox sponsor college night with reduced seat prices

By Tony Lina

A few days ago, the Boston Red Sox organization sponsored a prom for area college sports fans which I was privileged to attend. The reason for this was to figure out ways of encouraging student attendance at the Sox games.

Several ideas were suggested, one of the best received was the idea of having a college night, with reduced prices on some or all seats. The date for this has been set as April 21, when the Sox will be at home for a game against the Yankees.

In order to help the Red Sox find out what SIT students want, two things will be tried. First of all, if you have an idea which you feel would be worthwhile to send it to me. The other innovation will be a campus poll, for which athletic chairman from each house dorm will soon be receiving questionnaires.

This poll should be an immense help to the Red Sox in evaluating exactly what the MIT students want. However, it can only succeed if I get a large enough response. Therefore, I am asking each of you, no matter what you think of baseball, to reply. The form will take about one minute to fill out, and will help you get what you want.

Class of 1969 seeks JP ideas

The planning for Junior Prom 1969 has begun. The Class of '69 expects to issue a poll for its members on their preferences.

On March 15, at 2:50 p.m. in the Student Center the class Executive Committee will meet with anyone interested in working on JP. Anyone with ideas or questions may call a member of the Executive before the meeting.

Sox sponsor college night with reduced seat prices

By Tony Lina

A few days ago, the Boston Red Sox organization sponsored a prom for area college sports fans which I was privileged to attend. The reason for this was to figure out ways of encouraging student attendance at the Sox games.

Several ideas were suggested, one of the best received was the idea of having a college night, with reduced prices on some or all seats. The date for this has been set as April 21, when the Sox will be at home for a game against the Yankees.

In order to help the Red Sox find out what MIT students want, two things will be tried. First of all, if you have an idea which you feel would be worthwhile to send it to me. The other innovation will be a campus poll, for which athletic chairman from each house dorm will soon be receiving questionnaires.

This poll should be an immense help to the Red Sox in evaluating exactly what the MIT students want. However, it can only succeed if I get a large enough response. Therefore, I am asking each of you, no matter what you think of baseball, to reply. The form will take about one minute to fill out, and will help you get what you want.

College World...

(Continued from Page 10)

lower its prices, offer a variety of lunches, and publicly post its prices. The shop owner complied with all three requests but was hesitant to do it. "But as far as I am concerned, I will not do it," he told me to tell me what to do.

MCPSA to hold seminar with Sen. Ted Kennedy

(Continued from Page 2)

In order to help the Red Sox find out what MIT students want, two things will be tried. First of all, if you have an idea which you feel would be worthwhile to send it to me. The other innovation will be a campus poll, for which athletic chairman from each house dorm will soon be receiving questionnaires.

This poll should be an immense help to the Red Sox in evaluating exactly what the MIT students want. However, it can only succeed if I get a large enough response. Therefore, I am asking each of you, no matter what you think of baseball, to reply. The form will take about one minute to fill out, and will help you get what you want.

Art talk set

George Lockwood, called by some the most accomplished artist-lithographer in the United States today, will give a talk on graphics Monday night at 7:30 in the Student Center Art Studio. Room 120.

Fast-talking your parents is the hard way to get to Britain.

Fact-talk instead.

Tell them exactly what your trip will cost. Our free booklets help you calculate it.

One lists prices of organized student tours. They start around $650. If you want to travel on your own and take potluck on meeting people—which may be the most fun of all—add things up for yourself.

Start with a charter flight if your school has one. Or see parents you can spend this summer with—maybe as little as $100 for bed and breakfast.

With very little space for addi-

College World...

(Continued from Page 10)

lower its prices, offer a variety of lunches, and publicly post its prices. The shop owner complied with all three requests but was hesitant to do it. "But as far as I am concerned, I will not do it," he told me to tell me what to do.

MCPSA to hold seminar with Sen. Ted Kennedy

(Continued from Page 2)

In order to help the Red Sox find out what MIT students want, two things will be tried. First of all, if you have an idea which you feel would be worthwhile to send it to me. The other innovation will be a campus poll, for which athletic chairman from each house dorm will soon be receiving questionnaires.

This poll should be an immense help to the Red Sox in evaluating exactly what the MIT students want. However, it can only succeed if I get a large enough response. Therefore, I am asking each of you, no matter what you think of baseball, to reply. The form will take about one minute to fill out, and will help you get what you want.

Art talk set

George Lockwood, called by some the most accomplished artist-lithographer in the United States today, will give a talk on graphics Monday night at 7:30 in the Student Center Art Studio. Room 120.

Fast-talking your parents is the hard way to get to Britain.

Fact-talk instead.

Tell them exactly what your trip will cost. Our free booklets help you calculate it.

One lists prices of organized student tours. They start around $650. If you want to travel on your own and take potluck on meeting people—which may be the most fun of all—add things up for yourself.

Start with a charter flight if your school has one. Or see parents you can spend this summer with—maybe as little as $100 for bed and breakfast.

With very little space for addi-

College World...

(Continued from Page 10)

lower its prices, offer a variety of lunches, and publicly post its prices. The shop owner complied with all three requests but was hesitant to do it. "But as far as I am concerned, I will not do it," he told me to tell me what to do.

MCPSA to hold seminar with Sen. Ted Kennedy

(Continued from Page 2)

In order to help the Red Sox find out what MIT students want, two things will be tried. First of all, if you have an idea which you feel would be worthwhile to send it to me. The other innovation will be a campus poll, for which athletic chairman from each house dorm will soon be receiving questionnaires.

This poll should be an immense help to the Red Sox in evaluating exactly what the MIT students want. However, it can only succeed if I get a large enough response. Therefore, I am asking each of you, no matter what you think of baseball, to reply. The form will take about one minute to fill out, and will help you get what you want.

Art talk set

George Lockwood, called by some the most accomplished artist-lithographer in the United States today, will give a talk on graphics Monday night at 7:30 in the Student Center Art Studio. Room 120.

Fast-talking your parents is the hard way to get to Britain.

Fact-talk instead.

Tell them exactly what your trip will cost. Our free booklets help you calculate it.

One lists prices of organized student tours. They start around $650. If you want to travel on your own and take potluck on meeting people—which may be the most fun of all—add things up for yourself.

Start with a charter flight if your school has one. Or see parents you can spend this summer with—maybe as little as $100 for bed and breakfast.

With very little space for addi-

College World...

(Continued from Page 10)

lower its prices, offer a variety of lunches, and publicly post its prices. The shop owner complied with all three requests but was hesitant to do it. "But as far as I am concerned, I will not do it," he told me to tell me what to do.

MCPSA to hold seminar with Sen. Ted Kennedy

(Continued from Page 2)

In order to help the Red Sox find out what MIT students want, two things will be tried. First of all, if you have an idea which you feel would be worthwhile to send it to me. The other innovation will be a campus poll, for which athletic chairman from each house dorm will soon be receiving questionnaires.

This poll should be an immense help to the Red Sox in evaluating exactly what the MIT students want. However, it can only succeed if I get a large enough response. Therefore, I am asking each of you, no matter what you think of baseball, to reply. The form will take about one minute to fill out, and will help you get what you want.

Art talk set

George Lockwood, called by some the most accomplished artist-lithographer in the United States today, will give a talk on graphics Monday night at 7:30 in the Student Center Art Studio. Room 120.

Fast-talking your parents is the hard way to get to Britain.

Fact-talk instead.

Tell them exactly what your trip will cost. Our free booklets help you calculate it.

One lists prices of organized student tours. They start around $650. If you want to travel on your own and take potluck on meeting people—which may be the most fun of all—add things up for yourself.

Start with a charter flight if your school has one. Or see parents you can spend this summer with—maybe as little as $100 for bed and breakfast.

With very little space for addi-