What good does spending all your time on a sport do for you? After a long day in the “book world,”ry, it can be relaxing and, at times, a relief to relax. With a little work and a lot of effort, many students must question the value of athletics for them. Ten to fifteen hours a week is a lot of time for a Tech student to devote to athletics, so it is important to see if athletics is worth the effort. With that in mind, let us see how students do in good competition and some of the effects of varsity sport, still maintaining good school All-American to make the soccer team. In fact, if you are, you should develop some interest in the value of athletics for you. It is what it is intended to be—

Achill credit

Gearing the experienced another season as he placed behind Gardner in the Ivy League diving. Gardner and Gayton finished first in this event last year, and Gardner had just finished winning the Eastern championship against Yale and other Ivy League schools a few days earlier.

Lew Dillaw swam the 300 yard butterfly in 2:99.1, taking three seconds off his old record and taking a third in the New England Championships in this event.

In the 300 yard breaststroke, over the week, Zeta Chi 6-2, Sigma Alpha Epsilon edged Bacter 8-4, and NRKA took the Baker Bruins. In the finals, the BMBC team won a close first over Phi Mu Delta and the club BC team was able to win the last match by 5-4. The BC team is now tied for first place. The final tallies were 15-3, 15-5. The club BC team is successful at the Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming and Diving Championships at Queens College, New York City. Mel, a native of Boston, Massachusetts, Canada, defeated McGinley of Buffalo, New York, in two games, 16-15, 12-11, to take the singles title, and teamed with him to take the doubles crown by easily defeating Northeastern undergraduate and his Penn State partner. Bob and Mel played well together. The final tallies were 15-3, 12-5. The mixed doubles finals saw Bob McGinley and Pat Moeum, a junior from Wheaton College, defeat Busch and his partner, and take the Baker Bruins, 4-2.

Over the 300 yard breaststroke, Larry Preston 87 clocked a 2:26.1 to quality for the finals and to break his own record by two seconds. Preston’s final time was three seconds off his qualifying time and consequently placed sixth. His 1:09.6 in the 100 breaststroke placed him seventh. The Beaver’s third broken record came from Lee Dillaw, Mike Crane 87, John McCormick 88, and Linn Clare in the 400 yard freestyle relay. The relay recorded a 3:27.7 to take a fifth place. Mike Crane 87 got a bad start in the 50 yard freestyle and finished fifth in 25.1. Chau said to do well in this event: had he done his best time he would have finished second. Pete Aimhurst placed sixth in the three meter diving, and Tom Noir built his place in the 200 yard breaststroke.

Best, McKinley cop titles in badminton tournament

Both the students play in the newly-formed MIT badminton club, which has two teams competing in Boston leagues. One of the advantages of playing in the EAC is having girls from Washington, DC and New York in the club for any person, regardless of ability, to experience. The BC club is the only one in the Eastern Intercollegiate league is having girls from Wheaton College. Dick Nygren ’67, Donna Marshall ’69, and Bob McKinley ’70, at Baker House, or Bob McKinley at Theta Delta House, or Bob McKinley at Theta Delta House.

The varsity swimmers finished seventh, and MIT eighth. Lew Harris was a top scorer this year, and was name MVP. The final tallies were 129-53. The final tallies were 15-3, 15-5. The club BC team is successful at the Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming and Diving Championships at Queens College, New York City. Mel, a native of Boston, Massachusetts, Canada, defeat McGinley of Buffalo, New York, in two games, 16-15, 12-11, to take the singles title, and teamed with him to take the doubles crown by easily defeating Northeastern undergraduate and his Penn State partner. Bob and Mel played well together. The final tallies were 15-3, 12-5. The mixed doubles finals saw Bob McGinley and Pat Moeum, a junior from Wheaton College, defeat Busch and his partner, and take the Baker Bruins, 4-2.

Habs down Civil 3-2 for CHL championship

In a game played in a mixture of street and rain on March 5, 1967, Halalhals defeated Chris Emerley 2-1, to win the MIT Community Hockey League Championship. The game started first in the first period when Dave Blank deflected in a shot from Wesleyan on 2:00. The second period saw the Habs dominate and deciding match will be the Saturday. At the present time, the club is still bullish but it is hoped that if there is enough support it will be officially recognized by MIT next year. All those interested are invited to contact Carl Weinberg ’66, in Baker House, or Bob McKinley at Theta Delta House.

The scheduled consolation game between Instrumentation and Chemical 67, is 1:30 on Wednesday at 3:00.

The varsity men’s hockey team finished in the New England Championships held at the Southern Connecticut State College pool Friday and Saturday. Three varsity records were broken as Dan Geney ’67 and Lee Dillaw ’67 finished in outstanding individual performances.

Amherst First

Of the eighteen competing teams, Amherst was second with 243 1/3 points, Southern Connecticut placed second and Wesleyan finished third with 212 points. Mike Crane 87 got a bad start in the 50 yard freestyle and finished fifth in 25.1. Chau said to do well in this event: had he done his best time he would have finished second. Pete Aimhurst placed sixth in the three meter diving, and Tom Noir built his place in the 200 yard breaststroke.

The Beaver’s third broken record came from Lee Dillaw, Mike Crane 87, John McCormick 88, and Linn Clare in the 400 yard freestyle relay. The relay recorded a 3:27.7 to take a fifth place. Mike Crane 87 got a bad start in the 50 yard freestyle and finished fifth in 25.1. Chau said to do well in this event: had he done his best time he would have finished second. Pete Aimhurst placed sixth in the three meter diving, and Tom Noir built his place in the 200 yard breaststroke.

Best, McKinley cop titles in badminton tournament

Both the students play in the newly-formed MIT badminton club, which has two teams competing in Boston leagues. One of the advantages of playing in the Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming and Diving Championships at Queens College, New York City. Mel, a native of Boston, Massachusetts, Canada, defeated McGinley of Buffalo, New York, in two games, 16-15, 12-11, to take the singles title, and teamed with him to take the doubles crown by easily defeating Northeastern undergraduate and his Penn State partner. Bob and Mel played well together. The final tallies were 15-3, 12-5. The mixed doubles finals saw Bob McGinley and Pat Moeum, a junior from Wheaton College, defeat Busch and his partner, and take the Baker Bruins, 4-2.

Habs down Civil 3-2 for CHL championship

In a game played in a mixture of street and rain on March 5, 1967, Halalhals defeated Chris Emerley 2-1, to win the MIT Community Hockey League Championship. The game started first in the first period when Dave Blank deflected in a shot from Wesleyan on 2:00. The second period saw the Habs dominate and deciding match will be the Saturday. At the present time, the club is still bullish but it is hoped that if there is enough support it will be officially recognized by MIT next year. All those interested are invited to contact Carl Weinberg ’66, in Baker House, or Bob McKinley at Theta Delta House.

The scheduled consolation game between Instrumentation and Chemical 67, is 1:30 on Wednesday at 3:00.