

Letters to The Tech

(Continued from Page 4) would like to urge those who feel strongly about the matter to write to their Senator, Representative, or to President Johnson or Nelson Rockefeller and tell them how they feel about the matter. Better yet, send a telegram. Weimar Union charges the unbelievably low rate of $1.34 for 50 words or telegrams (eight letters to the above-mentioned people, in order to increase people's activity in their government. As we go out and increase your activity — or else don't complain when something happens that you don't like.

If anyone would like to know the names of his Senator or Representative, call me at 618 S or S12. I'll be glad to tell you.

Dramashop presents 'The Chair' at Kresge

The MIT Dramashop will present the last set of its one-act plays in Kresge Little Theatre this weekend. The plays, to be performed tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30 pm, are Eugene Ionesco's 'The Chairs' and Terence Rattigan's 'The Browning Version.' The first of these is directed by Andy Lenoff, and the latter is directed by Virginia Fano.

Maxim Gorky's 'The Lower Depths' has been chosen as the Dramashop's major spring production. Auditions for this large cast play will be held March 16 and 17 in the Little Theatre.

Footnotes...

33. - That the once separate efforts of the Public Relations Committee and the Public Office have been merged to produce an expanded Institute Calendar, the big question on campus seems to be the color of the next issue. Past issues have come in red, orange, blue-gray, and green. Rumor has it that eight colors will be employed on a rotating basis.

34. - Look for the Lecture Series Committee to present Dr. Timothy Leary on May 3rd.
