Horvitz chosen as new chairman of Boston Intercollegiate Council

By Steve Carhart

Problems associated with transition in membership and offices from one year to the next, which have hampered the Boston Intercollegiate Council in the past, were hopefully eliminated Sunday night when that body held elections for its own school at another Boston area taking courses not offered by one's city would increase the Council's potential and experienced leadership when operations begin next fall.

Chosen as chairman for the coming year was UAP Bob Horvitz '86, who has worked on the Council since its founding and succeeds former UAP Frank March '77, as Council chairman. Also elected to the Council's Executive Committee were Dawn Driscoll of Riggs, Secretary-Treasurer, and Roy Wheelback of Northeastern. Public Relations Chairman.

Outlines plans

In his election speech, Horvitz said that he hoped to increase the number of schools represented on the Council, and that more publicity would increase the Council's effectiveness. He added that he thought the Council should work to reduce the difficulty involved in taking courses not offered by one's own school at another Boston area college.

Project under way

Among the programs discussed were the developing student discount program, the Summer Session, and the Social Action Committee.
