Spring Weekend commentary

The Spring Weekend Committee did an admirable job in planning the overall weekend, but an unfortunate neglect of important details put the damper on a number of parts of the weekend.

We point out these faults not to be petty or picky, but so that future committees might be aware of some of the reasons people are left with a bad taste.

Friday night there was confusion in Kresge as people were shepherded about — this was due only to someone's negligence. The scene in Lodell could have been avoided. Hundreds of people jammed up the lobby; many of them were left on one of the few escalators which left at 8 p.m. This is due only to someone's negligence.

Speaking of queens, the queen judging fell through as most of the Spring Weekend Committee were at the second concert and there was no one around to do the judging. The poor finalists were called together and wound up waiting for the judges for a good part of the evening while a decision had already been reached, everyone had left.

Saturday was considerably better, but still suffered from some poor planning. There was some confusion at the Building 7 lobby; the buses were leaving continuously, some bus drivers were told that they would not leave until 11 p.m.

Many students are asking what happened to the Student Center. The Student Center has been all the entertainment on a break, so that many roamed about for 20 minutes aimlessly; the second and third floors seemed like a bee hive without a queen.

To the Editor:

Gene Davis painting that for a long time was on exhibit in the Hayden Gallery, along with other paintings contemporary art. Our representation includes light and shadow and medium, many of which have a history of being shown in the Hayden Gallery. After their return to MIT, both were installed for the summer in Hayden Gallery, along with other paintings contemporary art. We are very pleased about the opportunity to state what they are and what they are not. Many students are asking what happened to the Student Center. The Student Center has been all the entertainment on a break, so that many roamed about for 20 minutes aimlessly; the second and third floors seemed like a bee hive without a queen.

Gene Davis painting that for a long time was on exhibit in the Hayden Gallery, along with other paintings contemporary art. Our representation includes light and shadow and medium, many of which have a history of being shown in the Hayden Gallery. After their return to MIT, both were installed for the summer in Hayden Gallery, along with other paintings contemporary art. We are very pleased about the opportunity to state what they are and what they are not. Many students are asking what happened to the Student Center. The Student Center has been all the entertainment on a break, so that many roamed about for 20 minutes aimlessly; the second and third floors seemed like a bee hive without a queen. This was due only to someone's negligence.

Speaking of queens, the queen judging fell through as most of the Spring Weekend Committee were at the second concert and there was no one around to do the judging. The poor finalists were called together and wound up waiting for the judges for a good part of the evening while a decision had already been reached, everyone had left.

Saturday was considerably better, but still suffered from some poor planning. There was some confusion at the Building 7 lobby; the buses were leaving continuously, some bus drivers were told that they would not leave until 11 p.m.

Many students are asking what happened to the Student Center. The Student Center has been all the entertainment on a break, so that many roamed about for 20 minutes aimlessly; the second and third floors seemed like a bee hive without a queen. This was due only to someone's negligence.

Speaking of queens, the queen judging fell through as most of the Spring Weekend Committee were at the second concert and there was no one around to do the judging. The poor finalists were called together and wound up waiting for the judges for a good part of the evening while a decision had already been reached, everyone had left.

Saturday was considerably better, but still suffered from some poor planning. There was some confusion at the Building 7 lobby; the buses were leaving continuously, some bus drivers were told that they would not leave until 11 p.m. Many students are asking what happened to the Student Center. The Student Center has been all the entertainment on a break, so that many roamed about for 20 minutes aimlessly; the second and third floors seemed like a bee hive without a queen. This was due only to someone's negligence.

Speaking of queens, the queen judging fell through as most of the Spring Weekend Committee were at the second concert and there was no one around to do the judging. The poor finalists were called together and wound up waiting for the judges for a good part of the evening while a decision had already been reached, everyone had left.

Saturday was considerably better, but still suffered from some poor planning. There was some confusion at the Building 7 lobby; the buses were leaving continuously, some bus drivers were told that they would not leave until 11 p.m. Many students are asking what happened to the Student Center. The Student Center has been all the entertainment on a break, so that many roamed about for 20 minutes aimlessly; the second and third floors seemed like a bee hive without a queen. This was due only to someone's negligence.

Speaking of queens, the queen judging fell through as most of the Spring Weekend Committee were at the second concert and there was no one around to do the judging. The poor finalists were called together and wound up waiting for the judges for a good part of the evening while a decision had already been reached, everyone had left.

Saturday was considerably better, but still suffered from some poor planning. There was some confusion at the Building 7 lobby; the buses were leaving continuously, some bus drivers were told that they would not leave until 11 p.m. Many students are asking what happened to the Student Center. The Student Center has been all the entertainment on a break, so that many roamed about for 20 minutes aimlessly; the second and third floors seemed like a bee hive without a queen. This was due only to someone's negligence.

Speaking of queens, the queen judging fell through as most of the Spring Weekend Committee were at the second concert and there was no one around to do the judging. The poor finalists were called together and wound up waiting for the judges for a good part of the evening while a decision had already been reached, everyone had left.

Saturday was considerably better, but still suffered from some poor planning. There was some confusion at the Building 7 lobby; the buses were leaving continuously, some bus drivers were told that they would not leave until 11 p.m. Many students are asking what happened to the Student Center. The Student Center has been all the entertainment on a break, so that many roamed about for 20 minutes aimlessly; the second and third floors seemed like a bee hive without a queen. This was due only to someone's negligence.

Speaking of queens, the queen judging fell through as most of the Spring Weekend Committee were at the second concert and there was no one around to do the judging. The poor finalists were called together and wound up waiting for the judges for a good part of the evening while a decision had already been reached, everyone had left.