Trackmen triumph; GBC tomorrow

Tech triumphed in the Boston Polar Bears 79-70, Saturday at Briggs Field.

In the weight events, the Engineers outscored Bowdoin fifteen to ten. Bob Karman '67 won the hammer throw with a 172'2" throw, as did team second and David O'Conne '67 third. The Beavers outscored Bowdoin in the discus at 136'11" to win and Dave placed second with Garon third.

In certain respects, Bob Karman '67 swept the mile and the 800-yard run. He was also the third leg of the final mile relay. Bob Dunlap '67 ran the 440 and anchored the final relay. The score before the last mile relay was MIT 74, Bowdoin 00. Dean Schwartz '68, John Ribble '68, Karman, and Dennis composed Tech's relay. During the third quarter, Karman pulled away and Dunlap finished with a five-yard lead to clinch the meet.

This Wednesday MIT's trackmen will participate in the Greater Boston Championships. Pole vaulter Steve Snyder should look to finish high.

Arab students plan to hold September convention here

The Organization of Arab Students in the United States and Canada will hold its 36th annual convention at MIT next fall, marking the first time such a group of foreign students has met at a university in the New England area.

The topic of the two-day meeting will be "Contemporary Movements in the Arab World." It will be covered in lectures, seminars and workshops. Participants in the meeting will include scholars from both the United States and the Arab world.

The Arab Club at MIT initiated the proposal to locate the conference here. Enthusiasm for the plan of the part of the Foreign Students Office was a major factor in the organization's decision.

Brazilian and Vietnamese or Thai

The DRAC will host the Greater Boston Track and Field Championships tomorrow on Briga Field. The meet will begin around 2:30 and perpetual Harvard looks to repeat this year. Tech should have several outstanding long-distance Cordes.

The authentic, traditional, classic, conservative button down. Very acceptable.
