As the World Series opened in Boston for the first time in 21 years, the non-traditional fans de- served to be somewhat mistreated. An inflamed spirit of the campus, however, it was pretty generally agreed on that the crowd would take the Series eventually. Estimates gener- ally ran from five to six games on the final count, with the de- cision going to St. Louis. Two stars were in the spotlight as the Series opened with a 3-0's on the cards and, pick the Sox as winners—one manager, the other owner. One rather interesting reaction came from a student, who wanted to know how many games there were in the Series.

However, the comments on Bos- ton's performances against St. Louis was varied. Most conceded that the games would be pretty close and that the Sox' and the Cardinals' starting pitching staffs were about equal strength, but the St. Louis fans were much bigger. A con- firmed Bostonian said that he thought the Sox had a tougher time winning the pennant than they would in the Series. Another pretty well summed up the first game when he pointed out that "They wasn't very good today, but St. Louis had a good pitching staff. The Cards scored ten strikewalks in Wednesday's contest.

Pick low

Last spring, the same group would have picked low to get the Sox to finish somewhere in the nation's ranks. The same man said that they looked "pretty good" but if they got another chance he thought they could finish in the first division.

However, at least one Tech man is extremely happy about the whole thing. "If the Sox start to like to walk around holding a radio to his ear. Now that Boston is in the Series, he can be con- sidered so odd—for a few days, anyway.

Prediction

Maintaining The Tech's reputation for going out on a limb, this fall record 1-1

Boston U tops Tech nine

By Joe Angiuli

Wednesday afternoon saw the Tech baseball team receive its first defeat of the still young fall season, losing to Boston Univer- sity, 3-4. The game loomed in sharp contrast to last week's impres- sive victory over the same team.

Particularly impressive last week was the brilliant perform- ance by the young pitching staff which did not yield an earned run. BU sluggers, however, were not to be deterred. They had clearly and consistently found the range against the Tech's quartet of pitchers. Both teams scored early, en- abling any possibility of another pitching duel. The turning point of the game was a collision at home plate of the Tech ninth sputtered to be stymied again. They con- sistently found the range against BU sluggers, however, were not.

Manager elected

Elimination of IM points turned down by Council

By George Novosielski

The main feature of Tuesday night's Intramural Council meeting was a motion sponsored by Steve Pease '69, to abolish the present system of IM points. This would have in effect eliminated the All-Sports Trophy, which is presented yearly to the living group which accumulates the most points. After lengthy debate the motion was voted down 14-11.

Reports on the progress of the fall program were given by the respective managers. Pat Green '69 noted that there were few pitching injuries so far this year than in previous years, and that a newsletter on rules interpretation has been sent out because of the ambiguity of some of the rules.

Fall in record 1-1

Soccermen squeak by WPI 4-3; Boost hopes for future victories

By Ron Cline

Varsity soccer got another boost at Briggs Field last Wednesday as Tech defeated a traditionally tough WPI team, 4-3. The win brought the season record to 5-1-1, again raising hopes for Tech in the newly-formed league. Although the first league game will not be until October 18 against Tufts, the preliminary season is showing that the Tech squad has what it takes to make itself felt.

Last year, Tech was beaten by WPI 3-0. Following a 4-1 loss last year, Tech was 3-0.

Manager elected

The third period seemed to be another chance to test the team. However, the comments on Bos- tor are sure to be varied, the players who beat the Sheriff, the ones which did not yield an earned run. The third period seemed to be another chance to test the team. However, the comments on Bos- tor are sure to be varied, the players who beat the Sheriff, the ones which did not yield an earned run.