the number of entries, competition remained keen.
With a virtual lack of competition in the lightweight arena, Tech transferred its winter lightweight team to the heavyweight division.

According to the preliminary results, the Junior eight winner the gueurights ran the seven-mile course in 17:35.5, taking seventh place in that division.
First place was claimed by Vesper Boat Club in 16:24.8. Syn-cone took second, with Northeast ers and Harvard Eliot House fol-loving.
Tech lightweights had this division all to themselves as the Junior eight came through with 17:32.9 and the sophomores a 16:32.7.

The MIT forwards showed cohesive-tness and aggressive play which, if continued, gives promise of a much better record. The forwards consistently got the ball in the loose, and made good yardage behind the strong running of Wayne Baxter, Bill Stowell and Maisels.

Further hope for the future appeared in the form of Steve Den-ser's fine play at halfback and Larney Dolphs' running at wing.
Next Saturday, the ruggers will play host to Harvard.
While the Tech ruggers could not stop Holy Cross in regular play, they left Worcester content not stop Holy Cross in regular play host to Hartford.
Next Saturday, the rug-
gers will play host to Harvard.
While the Tech rug-
gers could not stop Holy Cross in regular
play, they left Worcester content
not stop Holy Cross in regular
play host to Hartford.
Next Saturday, the rug-
gers will play host to Harvard.