Sophos gain victory through 'spirit'

Beaver Key member Herb Finger is photographed following the Field Day tug-of-war, when he was pushed into the mud by his roommate, a member of the Class of '71.

The next event was a 200-yard race between biplanes, which were pushed down the field by 19 members of each class. The lighter freshmen plane won easily. The sophomores were awarded six points for having stolen the freshman kite, which would have been flown from the plane, and the freshmen nine points for winning the race.

A mystery event entitled "Charles Brown Express" followed. It was a tandem three-legged race, with 25 pairs of students from each class tied together. The sophomores won the race and 10 points by hopping on their feet down the 90-yard course, easily defeating the tangled freshmen.

Tug-of-war

The numerical superiority of the Class of '71 was convincingly proven in the unlimited tug-of-war. The sophomores fought hard, but their officers were quickly dragged through the mud-keth between the two classes. A similar fate befell the sophomore coeds in their tug-of-war. The score at this point was freshmen 24, sophomores 16, and Beaver Key 13, so that Beaver Key did not have to award "sportsmanship points" or change the 5-point scoring of the glove fight to maintain the contest.

In the glove fight the sophomores, estab-lished almost two to one, managed to stay together for the first few minutes before the fight degenerated into hand-to-hand combat. Both sides took gloves freely, but the sophomores gathered the greater weight of gloves by a small margin and emerged from the weighing room with the Field Day cup.

June Biasco, President of the Sophomore Class, handed the line for the "unlimited" tug-of-war during Field Day, which was won by the Class of 1970.
