opor. A plan would call for such a high school to draw from the local community, the faculty would be MIT undergraduates teaching for academic credit, and possibly graduate students teaching for money. Students would probably teach no more than one hour a day, and each course would be the responsibility of a team of three students of different years to insure continuity.

Flexible and different

It would be expected that such a school would be flexible and innovative, open as it would on such radically different premises from traditional high schools.
