Rush Week bias

To the Editor:

Although Rush Week 1968 is certainly a long way off, for interested students of "Rush Week: An Open Question," will serve as an introduction to the discussions that will take place between now and then.

The recently re-organized dormitory council has taken a renewed interest in the relationship of the two residence systems during this period, which is crucial to an understanding of entering freshmen. It is interesting, however, that FIC, which has the full support of the dormitory council, is not even listed as a campus organization in the Student Directory. A part of this is due to the poor planning of those who organized Rush Week meetings. It is also interesting to note that in the December 12, 1967, issue of the FIC, there was no announcement of Rush Week. There are three points of interest to the rusher in this editorial. The first is that freshmen do not have a good deal of freedom during the rush; they are only permitted to be on campus 120 minutes prior to Rush Week. The second is that the Freshman Council is isolated from the student government. It is also interesting to note that if the Dean of Students were to comment on this situation, it would be a good opportunity for auscultation of the freshmen. The third is that the Dean of Students might consider some sort of a Freshman Council to oversee the affairs of the freshmen.

The Freshman Council is a good idea for a number of reasons. It would provide an opportunity for the freshmen to have their voices heard. It would also give the freshmen a chance to be involved in campus affairs. It is also interesting to note that the Freshman Council would be a good opportunity for the freshmen to meet and discuss their ideas with the rest of the student body.
