was relatively little variation in vote distribution by age groups: in other words, 21-year-olds tended to vote the same as 21-year-olds.

The chart shows the candidates’ vote breakdown by the voters’ declared party.

Nixon favored in the South

The second-choice votes for the conservative candidates generally went to other conservative candidates. Among the hard-core conservatives, Sen. McCarthy got the most second-choice votes from Gov. George Wallace (18%). Only two groups of second-choice votes went more heavily for Sen. Kennedy than for Sen. McCarthy; those going first to Pres. Johnson, and to the late Rev. Martin L. King, Jr. Nixon carried South Carolina, the South, the Southwest, and Mountain States. The other regions went to McCarthy. Foreign students voting in the poll favored Sen. Kennedy by 36% over 28% for McCarthy, the closest competitor. Foreign students accounted for 1.02% of the total vote.

At M.I.T., however, the foreign students (who accounted for 3.64% of the total vote) favored Sen. McCarthy by 11% over 10.09% for Sen. Kennedy.
