Professor Jerome Lettvin, MIT Professor of Biology and Electrical Engineering, is shown here during the taping of the premier program of his new weekly television show. The program consists of hour-long informal discussions with groups of local students.

Photos by Joe Bonscheck

Professor Jerome Lettvin, MIT Professor of Biology and Electrical Engineering, is shown here during the taping of the premier program of his new weekly television show. The program consists of hour-long informal discussions with groups of local students.