The Institute Committee called on the Sanctuary in the Sala de Puerto Rico to move out of the Student Center by noon Friday. Action came in a meeting Friday night at 7:00 p.m. In a second motion, passed by a vote of 7 to 5, read as follows:

We approve the open discussion and educational experience of food by the Sanctuary. We are concerned that the rights of the Sanctuary and of the Student Body be observed.

A motion was defeated in which the Institute Committee stated that it would not condemn the illegal actions of the Sanctuary at MIT.

By Tom Pipal

After a mid-afternoon confrontation between Joe Bisaccio, Class of '70 President, and Mike Albert, co-chairman of the Student Representative Council, a special meeting was called. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the Sanctuary's situation and to determine whether the Sanctuary should be moved. Others addressed themselves to the question of the Sanction's future in the Student Center.

The resolution was presented to the special meeting of Inscomm Friday night and was adopted by a vote of 7 to 5. The resolution read:

Resolved, that the Junior 1968 Committee not hold the Friday night forum in Walker Memorial Ballroom, but that the Committee not pursue any disciplinary charges against the Junior 1968 Committee.

Resolved, further that the Committee open its doors so that the production of sunshine will recommence for the Junior 1968 Committee, with the aid of all those who volunteer to help. The production be performed within the additional space available in the Sala de Puerto Rico. By the close of the meeting, that the Junior 1968 Committee not be available by 8:00 p.m. Thursday, November 7, that the Committee shall submit the plan of the Friday night portion of the J.R.

Respectfully submitted,
Mike Albert
for Inscomm

At the meeting, the motion was rejected by a vote of 6 to 7. The meeting was adjourned.

A great deal of concern was expressed about the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. To the students, it seems today that problems exist that are seeking solutions, yet the difficulties are not the easy solutions for those in power. Students are not only concerned about their own needs, but also about the needs of others who are not attending the meeting. The students are concerned that student government exists for the benefit of the people and not just for the students in it now. They are concerned with the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary.

The Institute Committee, in their resolution, stated that they would not support a motion that would lead to the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. The resolution was presented to the special meeting of Inscomm Friday night and was adopted by a vote of 7 to 5.

By Steve Carhart

The Institute Committee met in a special meeting on Friday night to discuss the Sanctuary's situation and to determine whether the Sanctuary should be moved. Others addressed themselves to the question of the Sanctuary's future in the Student Center.

A great deal of concern was expressed about the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. To the students, it seems today that problems exist that are seeking solutions, yet the difficulties are not the easy solutions for those in power. Students are not only concerned about their own needs, but also about the needs of others who are not attending the meeting. The students are concerned that student government exists for the benefit of the people and not just for the students in it now. They are concerned with the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary.

The Institute Committee, in their resolution, stated that they would not support a motion that would lead to the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. The resolution was presented to the special meeting of Inscomm Friday night and was adopted by a vote of 7 to 5.

By Carson Agnew

The Institute Committee met in a special meeting on Friday night to discuss the Sanctuary's situation and to determine whether the Sanctuary should be moved. Others addressed themselves to the question of the Sanctuary's future in the Student Center.

A great deal of concern was expressed about the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. To the students, it seems today that problems exist that are seeking solutions, yet the difficulties are not the easy solutions for those in power. Students are not only concerned about their own needs, but also about the needs of others who are not attending the meeting. The students are concerned that student government exists for the benefit of the people and not just for the students in it now. They are concerned with the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary.

The Institute Committee, in their resolution, stated that they would not support a motion that would lead to the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. The resolution was presented to the special meeting of Inscomm Friday night and was adopted by a vote of 7 to 5.

By Steve Carhart

The Institute Committee met in a special meeting on Friday night to discuss the Sanctuary's situation and to determine whether the Sanctuary should be moved. Others addressed themselves to the question of the Sanctuary's future in the Student Center.

A great deal of concern was expressed about the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. To the students, it seems today that problems exist that are seeking solutions, yet the difficulties are not the easy solutions for those in power. Students are not only concerned about their own needs, but also about the needs of others who are not attending the meeting. The students are concerned that student government exists for the benefit of the people and not just for the students in it now. They are concerned with the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary.

The Institute Committee, in their resolution, stated that they would not support a motion that would lead to the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. The resolution was presented to the special meeting of Inscomm Friday night and was adopted by a vote of 7 to 5.

By Carson Agnew

The Institute Committee met in a special meeting on Friday night to discuss the Sanctuary's situation and to determine whether the Sanctuary should be moved. Others addressed themselves to the question of the Sanctuary's future in the Student Center.

A great deal of concern was expressed about the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. To the students, it seems today that problems exist that are seeking solutions, yet the difficulties are not the easy solutions for those in power. Students are not only concerned about their own needs, but also about the needs of others who are not attending the meeting. The students are concerned that student government exists for the benefit of the people and not just for the students in it now. They are concerned with the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary.

The Institute Committee, in their resolution, stated that they would not support a motion that would lead to the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. The resolution was presented to the special meeting of Inscomm Friday night and was adopted by a vote of 7 to 5.

By Steve Carhart

The Institute Committee met in a special meeting on Friday night to discuss the Sanctuary's situation and to determine whether the Sanctuary should be moved. Others addressed themselves to the question of the Sanctuary's future in the Student Center.

A great deal of concern was expressed about the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. To the students, it seems today that problems exist that are seeking solutions, yet the difficulties are not the easy solutions for those in power. Students are not only concerned about their own needs, but also about the needs of others who are not attending the meeting. The students are concerned that student government exists for the benefit of the people and not just for the students in it now. They are concerned with the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary.

The Institute Committee, in their resolution, stated that they would not support a motion that would lead to the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. The resolution was presented to the special meeting of Inscomm Friday night and was adopted by a vote of 7 to 5.

By Carson Agnew

The Institute Committee met in a special meeting on Friday night to discuss the Sanctuary's situation and to determine whether the Sanctuary should be moved. Others addressed themselves to the question of the Sanctuary's future in the Student Center.

A great deal of concern was expressed about the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. To the students, it seems today that problems exist that are seeking solutions, yet the difficulties are not the easy solutions for those in power. Students are not only concerned about their own needs, but also about the needs of others who are not attending the meeting. The students are concerned that student government exists for the benefit of the people and not just for the students in it now. They are concerned with the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary.

The Institute Committee, in their resolution, stated that they would not support a motion that would lead to the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. The resolution was presented to the special meeting of Inscomm Friday night and was adopted by a vote of 7 to 5.

By Steve Carhart

The Institute Committee met in a special meeting on Friday night to discuss the Sanctuary's situation and to determine whether the Sanctuary should be moved. Others addressed themselves to the question of the Sanctuary's future in the Student Center.

A great deal of concern was expressed about the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. To the students, it seems today that problems exist that are seeking solutions, yet the difficulties are not the easy solutions for those in power. Students are not only concerned about their own needs, but also about the needs of others who are not attending the meeting. The students are concerned that student government exists for the benefit of the people and not just for the students in it now. They are concerned with the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary.

The Institute Committee, in their resolution, stated that they would not support a motion that would lead to the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. The resolution was presented to the special meeting of Inscomm Friday night and was adopted by a vote of 7 to 5.

By Carson Agnew

The Institute Committee met in a special meeting on Friday night to discuss the Sanctuary's situation and to determine whether the Sanctuary should be moved. Others addressed themselves to the question of the Sanctuary's future in the Student Center.

A great deal of concern was expressed about the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. To the students, it seems today that problems exist that are seeking solutions, yet the difficulties are not the easy solutions for those in power. Students are not only concerned about their own needs, but also about the needs of others who are not attending the meeting. The students are concerned that student government exists for the benefit of the people and not just for the students in it now. They are concerned with the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary.

The Institute Committee, in their resolution, stated that they would not support a motion that would lead to the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. The resolution was presented to the special meeting of Inscomm Friday night and was adopted by a vote of 7 to 5.

By Steve Carhart

The Institute Committee met in a special meeting on Friday night to discuss the Sanctuary's situation and to determine whether the Sanctuary should be moved. Others addressed themselves to the question of the Sanctuary's future in the Student Center.

A great deal of concern was expressed about the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. To the students, it seems today that problems exist that are seeking solutions, yet the difficulties are not the easy solutions for those in power. Students are not only concerned about their own needs, but also about the needs of others who are not attending the meeting. The students are concerned that student government exists for the benefit of the people and not just for the students in it now. They are concerned with the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary.

The Institute Committee, in their resolution, stated that they would not support a motion that would lead to the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. The resolution was presented to the special meeting of Inscomm Friday night and was adopted by a vote of 7 to 5.

By Carson Agnew

The Institute Committee met in a special meeting on Friday night to discuss the Sanctuary's situation and to determine whether the Sanctuary should be moved. Others addressed themselves to the question of the Sanctuary's future in the Student Center.

A great deal of concern was expressed about the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. To the students, it seems today that problems exist that are seeking solutions, yet the difficulties are not the easy solutions for those in power. Students are not only concerned about their own needs, but also about the needs of others who are not attending the meeting. The students are concerned that student government exists for the benefit of the people and not just for the students in it now. They are concerned with the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary.

The Institute Committee, in their resolution, stated that they would not support a motion that would lead to the violation of the rights of students who opposed the Sanctuary. The resolution was presented to the special meeting of Inscomm Friday night and was adopted by a vote of 7 to 5.