Harriers run to second place finish in Easterns

By Ken Cameron

Providence captured the boners Friday in this year's EICCA cross country championships at Franklin Park in Boston. Tech's harriers placed second and Coast Guard came in third by scores of 26:40-84. Providence's depth was demonstrated by a very tight grouping at the finish. Their five scorers were all in the top ten, led by a winning time of 22:41 by Martin Robb and followed by second, third, sixth, and eighth.

Ben Wilcox '70 was back in competition after his illness, and once again took the lead position for MIT. Ben's time of 23:10 secured him the fourth place, and as was got at his previous times for the course. Stan Kornech '69 followed him in with 23:18 for fifth, while Jim Yanakits '69 and Larry Peters '70 took sixth and seventh at 23:41 and 23:46. Geoff Hallock '69 rounded out our scoring with 25th.

With a few exceptions, Friday's race was much slower than the CRC's last Tuesday. Providence's winning time was slower by 24 seconds than Harvard's, and the rest of the runners were grouped accordingly. A partial cause could be the hard race Tech ran only three days earlier and the slower competition. However, Stan Kornech '69 showed an outstanding effort and improved his time by over a minute.

Once more with a full roster, the harriers are entering a dual meet today with BU, who they defeated in the CRC's.

There will be an organizational race for the first three finishers on Friday at 5:30 pm, as the Pre-athletic, and 4:45 am, as the Frosh.

Intramural council fails to determine position of points

The Intramural Council at its last meeting last Thursday decided to hold 30 points by vote of a voice of representation. This did not affect the question of IM points involved condition. A counter motion was made by a number of entries the vote of the face. In the face of IM managers were presented.

A voice vote taken earlier in the flying chairmen of the various intramural committees showed that a full majority of the living groups lived keeping the point system. The chairmen of the committees were then polled in their own group. The points system was speedily their group's opinion rather than their own.

They changed direction of the action, interquarted by several instances to call the question, but none vote was taken. A verbal proxy by voice of vote of '70, bowling manager. The vote of 36 points was disallowed as the proxy would have been the vote as the result in case of a tie in the balloting rescued president, Jeff Weissman, as the deciding vote and he has been empowered as opposed the point system.

Sailors win NE crown

By Don Askha

The frosh athletes won an impossi- ble sea victory this weekend and the EICCA Championships, but the killers were dropped by Phillips Andover, 4-0.

The sea battle was for possession of the Frodo Trophy, which is awarded to the winners of the NE Froshmen Championship. MIT and fourteen other colleges each sent one boat to Tufts for the two-city competition. The final scores of the first five finishers were: MIT 24, Brown 3, Trinity 34, Dartmouth 41, and Tufts 46.

Tom Bergknappen skippered for MIT on both days of the regatta. Dwight Davis was his crewman on Saturday and Dave Kiebs created on Sunday.

The MIT sailing team has shown a lot of talent which should be very beneficial for the varsity next year. Although their season record was not tremendously impressive, there are exciting circumstances. Frosh coach Ed Shaw was faced with so many good athletes that he had to weed out the scoring with a respectable 260 out of a possible 300) and Boston College at the Du Pont range and 50 the previous year, partially due to the fact that AU style wrestling was eliminated from the format of the tournament. The smaller total of 219 followed the need to run at two more times than last year.

The varsity frosh team began their 8-2 season by hosting Boston State College at the Du Pont range and collecting the visitors, 1299-1011. Four of the top five shooters hit above 260 feet of last season. They've lost only one graduating senior from last year, Dennis Armin, though he was certainly one of the most potent scorers on the squad. The team is setting its sights high for a perfect season, and they are being aided in attaining that goal by their new coach, Al Heusen. Hanson is presently a master sergeant in the Air Force and holds the US indoor 3-point record at a phenomenal 255.

The shots will take on Boston State again this Friday before traveling to Providence College the next day. A match at Waltham the next Friday will then pave the way towards one of the biggest events of the season when they host Boston University, November 22.

When you come on in a Van Heusen shirt... the rest come off like a bunch of stiff.
