Calendar changes studied

By Dave deBrotha

The sanctuary community of J. O'Conner ended Wednesday night, with a similar change in policy on the part of the leaders of the community. The action climaxed three days of almost constant activity, during which the sanctuary's purpose was supposedly nullified.

The last topic of discussion was a meeting for the first time of the three-quarter calendar, which means one quarter per semester during the fall season, fall, winter, and spring. The system has several advantages, not the least of which is that it is quarter ends before Christmas—a popular idea. This idea, too, is under consideration.

O'Conner's sanctuary ends

Action follows intensive reevaluation

The sanctuary of J. O'Conner, which started last year, and which has been the subject of much discussion this year, has come to an end. The sanctuary was closed on Wednesday night, with a similar change in policy on the part of the leaders of the community. The action climaxed three days of almost constant activity, during which the sanctuary's purpose was supposedly nullified.

The last topic of discussion was a meeting for the first time of the three-quarter calendar, which means one quarter per semester during the fall season, fall, winter, and spring. The system has several advantages, not the least of which is that it is quarter ends before Christmas—a popular idea. This idea, too, is under consideration.

Photos by Dave deBrotha

The sanctuary community of J. O'Conner ended Wednesday night, with a similar change in policy on the part of the leaders of the community. The action climaxed three days of almost constant activity, during which the sanctuary's purpose was supposedly nullified.

The last topic of discussion was a meeting for the first time of the three-quarter calendar, which means one quarter per semester during the fall season, fall, winter, and spring. The system has several advantages, not the least of which is that it is quarter ends before Christmas—a popular idea. This idea, too, is under consideration.

The sanctuary, which started last year, and which has been the subject of much discussion this year, has come to an end. The sanctuary was closed on Wednesday night, with a similar change in policy on the part of the leaders of the community. The action climaxed three days of almost constant activity, during which the sanctuary's purpose was supposedly nullified.

The last topic of discussion was a meeting for the first time of the three-quarter calendar, which means one quarter per semester during the fall season, fall, winter, and spring. The system has several advantages, not the least of which is that it is quarter ends before Christmas—a popular idea. This idea, too, is under consideration.

The sanctuary of J. O'Conner, which started last year, and which has been the subject of much discussion this year, has come to an end. The sanctuary was closed on Wednesday night, with a similar change in policy on the part of the leaders of the community. The action climaxed three days of almost constant activity, during which the sanctuary's purpose was supposedly nullified.

The last topic of discussion was a meeting for the first time of the three-quarter calendar, which means one quarter per semester during the fall season, fall, winter, and spring. The system has several advantages, not the least of which is that it is quarter ends before Christmas—a popular idea. This idea, too, is under consideration.

The sanctuary of J. O'Conner, which started last year, and which has been the subject of much discussion this year, has come to an end. The sanctuary was closed on Wednesday night, with a similar change in policy on the part of the leaders of the community. The action climaxed three days of almost constant activity, during which the sanctuary's purpose was supposedly nullified.

The last topic of discussion was a meeting for the first time of the three-quarter calendar, which means one quarter per semester during the fall season, fall, winter, and spring. The system has several advantages, not the least of which is that it is quarter ends before Christmas—a popular idea. This idea, too, is under consideration.

The sanctuary of J. O'Conner, which started last year, and which has been the subject of much discussion this year, has come to an end. The sanctuary was closed on Wednesday night, with a similar change in policy on the part of the leaders of the community. The action climaxed three days of almost constant activity, during which the sanctuary's purpose was supposedly nullified.

The last topic of discussion was a meeting for the first time of the three-quarter calendar, which means one quarter per semester during the fall season, fall, winter, and spring. The system has several advantages, not the least of which is that it is quarter ends before Christmas—a popular idea. This idea, too, is under consideration.

The sanctuary of J. O'Conner, which started last year, and which has been the subject of much discussion this year, has come to an end. The sanctuary was closed on Wednesday night, with a similar change in policy on the part of the leaders of the community. The action climaxed three days of almost constant activity, during which the sanctuary's purpose was supposedly nullified.

The last topic of discussion was a meeting for the first time of the three-quarter calendar, which means one quarter per semester during the fall season, fall, winter, and spring. The system has several advantages, not the least of which is that it is quarter ends before Christmas—a popular idea. This idea, too, is under consideration.

The sanctuary of J. O'Conner, which started last year, and which has been the subject of much discussion this year, has come to an end. The sanctuary was closed on Wednesday night, with a similar change in policy on the part of the leaders of the community. The action climaxed three days of almost constant activity, during which the sanctuary's purpose was supposedly nullified.

The last topic of discussion was a meeting for the first time of the three-quarter calendar, which means one quarter per semester during the fall season, fall, winter, and spring. The system has several advantages, not the least of which is that it is quarter ends before Christmas—a popular idea. This idea, too, is under consideration.

The sanctuary of J. O'Conner, which started last year, and which has been the subject of much discussion this year, has come to an end. The sanctuary was closed on Wednesday night, with a similar change in policy on the part of the leaders of the community. The action climaxed three days of almost constant activity, during which the sanctuary's purpose was supposedly nullified.

The last topic of discussion was a meeting for the first time of the three-quarter calendar, which means one quarter per semester during the fall season, fall, winter, and spring. The system has several advantages, not the least of which is that it is quarter ends before Christmas—a popular idea. This idea, too, is under consideration.

The sanctuary of J. O'Conner, which started last year, and which has been the subject of much discussion this year, has come to an end. The sanctuary was closed on Wednesday night, with a similar change in policy on the part of the leaders of the community. The action climaxed three days of almost constant activity, during which the sanctuary's purpose was supposedly nullified.

The last topic of discussion was a meeting for the first time of the three-quarter calendar, which means one quarter per semester during the fall season, fall, winter, and spring. The system has several advantages, not the least of which is that it is quarter ends before Christmas—a popular idea. This idea, too, is under consideration.

The sanctuary of J. O'Conner, which started last year, and which has been the subject of much discussion this year, has come to an end. The sanctuary was closed on Wednesday night, with a similar change in policy on the part of the leaders of the community. The action climaxed three days of almost constant activity, during which the sanctuary's purpose was supposedly nullified.

The last topic of discussion was a meeting for the first time of the three-quarter calendar, which means one quarter per semester during the fall season, fall, winter, and spring. The system has several advantages, not the least of which is that it is quarter ends before Christmas—a popular idea. This idea, too, is under consideration.

The sanctuary of J. O'Conner, which started last year, and which has been the subject of much discussion this year, has come to an end. The sanctuary was closed on Wednesday night, with a similar change in policy on the part of the leaders of the community. The action climaxed three days of almost constant activity, during which the sanctuary's purpose was supposedly nullified.

The last topic of discussion was a meeting for the first time of the three-quarter calendar, which means one quarter per semester during the fall season, fall, winter, and spring. The system has several advantages, not the least of which is that it is quarter ends before Christmas—a popular idea. This idea, too, is under consideration.

The sanctuary of J. O'Conner, which started last year, and which has been the subject of much discussion this year, has come to an end. The sanctuary was closed on Wednesday night, with a similar change in policy on the part of the leaders of the community. The action climaxed three days of almost constant activity, during which the sanctuary's purpose was supposedly nullified.

The last topic of discussion was a meeting for the first time of the three-quarter calendar, which means one quarter per semester during the fall season, fall, winter, and spring. The system has several advantages, not the least of which is that it is quarter ends before Christmas—a popular idea. This idea, too, is under consideration.