Sanctuary terminated by arrest

By Reid Adar

The MIT Sanctuary for Mike O'Connor, which had during its nearly two-week-long existence involved as many as 1,000 people at a time, ended quietly Sunday afternoon when the Federal Bureau of Investigation arrested the last of the students involved with it.

Shortly after 1 am O'Connor was arrested by a single, unidentified military police officer in front of the South Campus dormitory. O'Connor, who was led by a handful of people were present, most of whom were asleep when the arresting officer arrived.

According to witness Bob Bartik, Lt. Oliveri opened the door for the officer, who entered and said to O'Connor: "In the name of the United States government, I am placing you under arrest." O'Connor added to the warrant, fastening the plastic handcuffs. He was given the warrant and allowed sufficient time to read it through.

"He was put on the floor and given one by a bystander. The arresting officer lit it for him. Bartik said that O'Connor and the officer were leaving, Oliveri advised O'Connor of his constitutional rights.

Almost noon Friday

The arrest was almost made Friday when O'Connor left the Student Center to rejoin the crowd that had gathered. O'Connor-Jeff, Frank S. Korn of the Student Center in an elevator. Various persons who had been in the SCC office followed by way of the stairs.

In an informal talk Saturday, Michael Ferber, one of the students arrested with O'Connor broke into a fast pace upon reaching the basement, and hastened to the freight entrance by way of the rear stairs. O'Connor, and the arresting officer then got into an unmarked black sedan with Massachusetts license plates and a large antenna on the rear deck. Two more unmentioned men, one of whom blissfully grabbed O'Connor's cigarette and threw it out the car.

The car then left the Student Center, stopped to olivetti off on the east side of Massachusetts Avenue, and proceeded toward Harvard Square. Francis E. Wadleigh, MIT Director of Public Relations, later said that O'Connor was taken to Fort Devens.

No warning

Dean of Student Affairs Kenneth R. Wadleigh admitted that he had been told of the arrest Saturday night. According to Wadleigh, the arrest was made on the basis of information of this sort which he might receive. He retracted that promise, that informants incorporated in the new program.

Wadleigh gave as his reasons for arresting the offering of a warning (1) that since the arrest was coming to his house, and was told that the arrest would be made there. Wadleigh felt that the arrest would be made in a peaceful, nonviolent way.

Almost noon Friday

The arrest was almost made Friday when O'Connor left the Student Center to rejoin the crowd that had gathered. O'Connor-Jeff, Frank S. Korn of the Student Center in an elevator. Various persons who had been in the SCC office followed by way of the stairs.

In an informal talk Saturday, Michael Ferber, one of the students arrested with O'Connor broke into a fast pace upon reaching the basement, and hastened to the freight entrance by way of the rear stairs. O'Connor, and the arresting officer then got into an unmarked black sedan with Massachusetts license plates and a large antenna on the rear deck. Two more unmentioned men, one of whom blissfully grabbed O'Connor's cigarette and threw it out the car.

The car then left the Student Center, stopped to olivetti off on the east side of Massachusetts Avenue, and proceeded toward Harvard Square. Francis E. Wadleigh, MIT Director of Public Relations, later said that O'Connor was taken to Fort Devens.

No warning

Dean of Student Affairs Kenneth R. Wadleigh admitted that he had been told of the arrest Saturday night. According to Wadleigh, the arrest was made on the basis of information of this sort which he might receive. He retracted that promise, that informants incorporated in the new program.

Wadleigh gave as his reasons for arresting the offering of a warning (1) that since the arrest was coming to his house, and was told that the arrest would be made there. Wadleigh felt that the arrest would be made in a peaceful, nonviolent way.

Almost noon Friday

The arrest was almost made Friday when O'Connor left the Student Center to rejoin the crowd that had gathered. O'Connor-Jeff, Frank S. Korn of the Student Center in an elevator. Various persons who had been in the SCC office followed by way of the stairs.

In an informal talk Saturday, Michael Ferber, one of the students arrested with O'Connor broke into a fast pace upon reaching the basement, and hastened to the freight entrance by way of the rear stairs. O'Connor, and the arresting officer then got into an unmarked black sedan with Massachusetts license plates and a large antenna on the rear deck. Two more unmentioned men, one of whom blissfully grabbed O'Connor's cigarette and threw it out the car.

The car then left the Student Center, stopped to olivetti off on the east side of Massachusetts Avenue, and proceeded toward Harvard Square. Francis E. Wadleigh, MIT Director of Public Relations, later said that O'Connor was taken to Fort Devens.

No warning

Dean of Student Affairs Kenneth R. Wadleigh admitted that he had been told of the arrest Saturday night. According to Wadleigh, the arrest was made on the basis of information of this sort which he might receive. He retracted that promise, that informants incorporated in the new program.

Wadleigh gave as his reasons for arresting the offering of a warning (1) that since the arrest was coming to his house, and was told that the arrest would be made there. Wadleigh felt that the arrest would be made in a peaceful, nonviolent way.

Almost noon Friday

The arrest was almost made Friday when O'Connor left the Student Center to rejoin the crowd that had gathered. O'Connor-Jeff, Frank S. Korn of the Student Center in an elevator. Various persons who had been in the SCC office followed by way of the stairs.

In an informal talk Saturday, Michael Ferber, one of the students arrested with O'Connor broke into a fast pace upon reaching the basement, and hastened to the freight entrance by way of the rear stairs. O'Connor, and the arresting officer then got into an unmarked black sedan with Massachusetts license plates and a large antenna on the rear deck. Two more unmentioned men, one of whom blissfully grabbed O'Connor's cigarette and threw it out the car.

The car then left the Student Center, stopped to olivetti off on the east side of Massachusetts Avenue, and proceeded toward Harvard Square. Francis E. Wadleigh, MIT Director of Public Relations, later said that O'Connor was taken to Fort Devens.

No warning

Dean of Student Affairs Kenneth R. Wadleigh admitted that he had been told of the arrest Saturday night. According to Wadleigh, the arrest was made on the basis of information of this sort which he might receive. He retracted that promise, that informants incorporated in the new program.

Wadleigh gave as his reasons for arresting the offering of a warning (1) that since the arrest was coming to his house, and was told that the arrest would be made there. Wadleigh felt that the arrest would be made in a peaceful, nonviolent way.

Almost noon Friday

The arrest was almost made Friday when O'Connor left the Student Center to rejoin the crowd that had gathered. O'Connor-Jeff, Frank S. Korn of the Student Center in an elevator. Various persons who had been in the SCC office followed by way of the stairs.

In an informal talk Saturday, Michael Ferber, one of the students arrested with O'Connor broke into a fast pace upon reaching the basement, and hastened to the freight entrance by way of the rear stairs. O'Connor, and the arresting officer then got into an unmarked black sedan with Massachusetts license plates and a large antenna on the rear deck. Two more unmentioned men, one of whom blissfully grabbed O'Connor's cigarette and threw it out the car.

The car then left the Student Center, stopped to olivetti off on the east side of Massachusetts Avenue, and proceeded toward Harvard Square. Francis E. Wadleigh, MIT Director of Public Relations, later said that O'Connor was taken to Fort Devens.

No warning

Dean of Student Affairs Kenneth R. Wadleigh admitted that he had been told of the arrest Saturday night. According to Wadleigh, the arrest was made on the basis of information of this sort which he might receive. He retracted that promise, that informants incorporated in the new program.

Wadleigh gave as his reasons for arresting the offering of a warning (1) that since the arrest was coming to his house, and was told that the arrest would be made there. Wadleigh felt that the arrest would be made in a peaceful, nonviolent way.

Almost noon Friday

The arrest was almost made Friday when O'Connor left the Student Center to rejoin the crowd that had gathered. O'Connor-Jeff, Frank S. Korn of the Student Center in an elevator. Various persons who had been in the SCC office followed by way of the stairs.

In an informal talk Saturday, Michael Ferber, one of the students arrested with O'Connor broke into a fast pace upon reaching the basement, and hastened to the freight entrance by way of the rear stairs. O'Connor, and the arresting officer then got into an unmarked black sedan with Massachusetts license plates and a large antenna on the rear deck. Two more unmentioned men, one of whom blissfully grabbed O'Connor's cigarette and threw it out the car.

The car then left the Student Center, stopped to olivetti off on the east side of Massachusetts Avenue, and proceeded toward Harvard Square. Francis E. Wadleigh, MIT Director of Public Relations, later said that O'Connor was taken to Fort Devens.

No warning

Dean of Student Affairs Kenneth R. Wadleigh admitted that he had been told of the arrest Saturday night. According to Wadleigh, the arrest was made on the basis of information of this sort which he might receive. He retracted that promise, that informants incorporated in the new program.

Wadleigh gave as his reasons for arresting the offering of a warning (1) that since the arrest was coming to his house, and was told that the arrest would be made there. Wadleigh felt that the arrest would be made in a peaceful, nonviolent way.

Almost noon Friday

The arrest was almost made Friday when O'Connor left the Student Center to rejoin the crowd that had gathered. O'Connor-Jeff, Frank S. Korn of the Student Center in an elevator. Various persons who had been in the SCC office followed by way of the stairs.

In an informal talk Saturday, Michael Ferber, one of the students arrested with O'Connor broke into a fast pace upon reaching the basement, and hastened to the freight entrance by way of the rear stairs. O'Connor, and the arresting officer then got into an unmarked black sedan with Massachusetts license plates and a large antenna on the rear deck. Two more unmentioned men, one of whom blissfully grabbed O'Connor's cigarette and threw it out the car.

The car then left the Student Center, stopped to olivetti off on the east side of Massachusetts Avenue, and proceeded toward Harvard Square. Francis E. Wadleigh, MIT Director of Public Relations, later said that O'Connor was taken to Fort Devens.

No warning

Dean of Student Affairs Kenneth R. Wadleigh admitted that he had been told of the arrest Saturday night. According to Wadleigh, the arrest was made on the basis of information of this sort which he might receive. He retracted that promise, that informants incorporated in the new program.

Wadleigh gave as his reasons for arresting the offering of a warning (1) that since the arrest was coming to his house, and was told that the arrest would be made there. Wadleigh felt that the arrest would be made in a peaceful, nonviolent way.

Almost noon Friday

The arrest was almost made Friday when O'Connor left the Student Center to rejoin the crowd that had gathered. O'Connor-Jeff, Frank S. Korn of the Student Center in an elevator. Various persons who had been in the SCC office followed by way of the stairs.

In an informal talk Saturday, Michael Ferber, one of the students arrested with O'Connor broke into a fast pace upon reaching the basement, and hastened to the freight entrance by way of the rear stairs. O'Connor, and the arresting officer then got into an unmarked black sedan with Massachusetts license plates and a large antenna on the rear deck. Two more unmentioned men, one of whom blissfully grabbed O'Connor's cigarette and threw it out the car.

The car then left the Student Center, stopped to olivetti off on the east side of Massachusetts Avenue, and proceeded toward Harvard Square. Francis E. Wadleigh, MIT Director of Public Relations, later said that O'Connor was taken to Fort Devens.

No warning

Dean of Student Affairs Kenneth R. Wadleigh admitted that he had been told of the arrest Saturday night. According to Wadleigh, the arrest was made on the basis of information of this sort which he might receive. He retracted that promise, that informants incorporated in the new program.

Wadleigh gave as his reasons for arresting the offering of a warning (1) that since the arrest was coming to his house, and was told that the arrest would be made there. Wadleigh felt that the arrest would be made in a peaceful, nonviolent way.