A man's razor isn't made for a woman's body.

A woman's body needs a woman's shaver. A Lady Norelco 3SL.

A shaver that's comfortable for a woman.

A shaver that has two shaving edgers. One for legs and one for underarms.

A shaver that shaves underarms as close or closer than a blade. One for legs and one for un-derarms.

A shaver that's comfortable for a beauty parlor. A Lady Norelco 15L.

A woman's body needs a woman's shaver, A Lady Norelco 15L.

(Continued from page 1)

The request of the Political Science Department, the Economics Department had little difficulty in making a near unanimous consensus on denying Rostow re-admission to their department.

As supporting evidence to his claim that Rostow's refusal at MIT was politically oriented, Reston cited reports that Rostow had also received a cold shoulder upon making inquiries about a position at Harvard.

Reston first came to MIT in 1949 as a historian in the Humanities Department. About six years later, he assumed a position in the Department of Economics, which at that time included the departments of political science and psychology. He is the author of a well-known book on economic development.

bleded. The Arts and Sciences faculty members reportedly skeptical of his level of competence and his manner which was seemingly abrupt to critics. In addition, many members were reportedly skeptical of his level of research and felt that he was essentially over-rated as an economic historian.

Even in the early years of his absence, before the Vietnam controversy, when Rostow was simply a bureaucrat in the State Department, most of the faculty were apparently glad that he had left. Thus, although they were informed of the request of the Political Science Department, the Economics Department had little difficulty in making a near unanimous consensus on denying Rostow re-admission to their department.

As supporting evidence to his claim that Rostow's refusal at MIT was politically oriented, Reston cited reports that Rostow had also received a cold shoulder upon making inquiries about a position at Harvard.

Reston first came to MIT in 1949 as a historian in the Humanities Department. About six years later, he assumed a position in the Department of Economics, which at that time included the departments of political science and psychology. He is the author of a well-known book on economic development.

Europe Bound IN '69?

GET ON THE ViSA: FLITE-A-RAMA PROGRAM

52 Scheduled Departures (no charter woes) to London and Brussels via PAN AM only $220 round trip

Skiers!! Ski Cannon, Waterville, Mittersil, Loon.. Weekend trips $33.00 complete (transportation optional).

Warm Weather Lovers!! Spring Recess Carribean cruise on world's only complete DISCO SHIP $210 complete.

DIAL 245- ViSA: for reservations and tickets.

TRAVEL RESERVATION CENTER operated by ViSA: registered Service Mark-1963. Not to be confused with those who have sought to use our name.