Limited enrollment
Course in filmmaking offered

By Larry Klein

A course in Filmmaking will be offered in a trial basis to MIT students beginning with the spring term. The nine-week course will meet three times a week in one "classroom-type" session and two four-hour "flexible" sessions.

Keynotes of the course will be flexibility. In the classroom, students will study cinematic techniques and view and discuss movies. Lab work will consist of the production of a series of short films, each consisting of two sections of fifteen minutes each.

The course will be held in the classroom from 5 to 6:30 p.m., and in the lab from 8 to 9:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday.

It is not necessary to register for the course. Those interested should plan to attend the first session of the course on February 12 at 8:00 p.m. in Kresge Auditorium.

A series of terrifying and funny confrontations with wife-murderers, gamblers, perverts, prostitutes, pimps and innocents played by a rare assortment of professionals including Rip Torn and Beverly Keel and amuseurs like George Plimpton, Jack Richardson, Michael McClure, Edward Bonetti and Peter Rosoff.

BEYOND THE LAW is just about everything that THE DETECTIVE wasn't.
