Johnson's statement (continued from page 11)

To Members of the MIT Community:

October 15 has been set as a day when activities across the country will focus on ending the war in Vietnam. Members of our international community have scheduled their own individual responsibility to end the war. Students are always on their own responsibility to meet their academic commitments. It is my hope that students and faculty will consider jointly if they wish to exchange October 15 classes, so that they may devote their thoughts and activities to the causes of the day. Facilities of the Institute will be made available to individuals and groups who wish to hold discussions or informal meetings. October 15 has been set as a day when activities across the country will focus on ending the war in Vietnam. Members of our international community have scheduled their own individual responsibility to end the war. Students are always on their own responsibility to meet their academic commitments. It is my hope that students and faculty will consider jointly if they wish to exchange October 15 classes, so that they may devote their thoughts and activities to the causes of the day. Facilities of the Institute will be made available to individuals and groups who wish to hold discussions or informal meetings.

Howard W. Johnson