NAC votes to eject MITSDS from meeting

(Continued from page 1) The motion was made to protest upon the ground that arrests at the January meeting of the NAC meeting were illegal, and that therefore the meeting was illegal. The motion was seconded by Mr. Johnson, and the vote was recorded as follows: 36 in favor, 16 against, and 25 not voting.

Representatives of the NAC were present at the meeting and attempted to get the news to support its plan to form an obstructive picket line at the I-Labs. Several people criticized the productivity of this plan, noting that since the administration already knew their plans it was likely to take action to minimize the effect of anything the NAC might do there.

The proposed plan was made to go to the CIS on Wednesday since the CIS has jurisdiction over the area that the NAC might occupy and that they would reoccupy. The same proposal included staying at the CIS as long as it was available.

Following the close of the MIT caucus, an attempt was made to clear the CIS before the beginning of the NAC mass meeting. This proved impossible, and the room was in a state of confusion with people moving in and out for about thirty minutes before the next meeting could begin.

The first order of business of the NAC meeting was a motion that anyone present who was not a member of the Coalition be asked to leave the meeting. The motion noted several groups in particular who were not in the Coalition: a group of faculty members who had opposed the November Actions, a group of deans, and students associated with PL-WSA groups. Members of MITSDS who were present at the meeting contested the motion asking them to leave.

Following this, Mr. Johnson of the NAC presented his group's reasons for asking the MITSDS to leave. He pointed out that since the Coalition was formed only a month ago, a vote had been taken to specifically exclude PL-WSA-oriented groups from it. He also pointed out that these groups did not adhere to the minimal political line of the Coalition. He noted that they supported neither victory to the NLF nor women's liberation.

The motion was taken of all those present. The result of the vote was at least 3:2 in favor of having MITSDS leave the meeting. The MITSDS spokesman then made a final statement to the Coalition, calling their decision a mistake. He then reiterated his belief that the Coalition should embody a wider range of politics, and that they wished to avoid fighting since the Weathermen were armed, led the MITSDS out of the meeting without any trouble.

A member of the NAC Tactics Committee then presented the plan formulated during their meetings. The Tactics Committee plan called for an obstructive picket line of approximately 400 demonstrators around the entrances to I-Lab 5, where work is being done on MIRV. While drawing a map of the area on a blackboard, he explained that the NAC demonstrators would be divided into three groups: two small, one large. The large group was supposed to obstruct the main doors and the roof ramp of the building while the other two were to obstruct the entrance to the parking lot behind the building.

In a straw ballot held around 3:00, there was a strong consensus in the group that the actions should take place at the I-Labs. The meeting broke up about 6:00am when the proposals were rehearsed and the final decision to go to the I-Lab was made.

Interactive Lectures on Astronomy

Freshman with curiosity about astronomy but no great knowledge of the subject are invited to use an experimental system containing recorded lectures plus answers to questions that may arise while listening. If you would like to try the system, please write a short note to Stewart Wilson, Polaris Corp., 730 Main St., Cambridge (near MIT), stating your prospective MIT course, the hours you are free, and how you can be reached.

You still get all the great food and TWA features like movies and stereo music? But it won't cost you like it does everywhere else. And TWA flies to nearly all the major cities in the U.S., plus we have a special youth fare to Hawaii.

With all that going for you, there's only one excuse for not going home for the holidays. Getting your hair cut.

*By Inflight Motion Pictures Inc. on transcontinental non-stops.

TWA put a price on your head that even your parents might agree to pay.

We're out to get you home for the holidays. Fast. Which is something that your parents will probably enjoy too.

Something else they'll enjoy is our fares for students. On a standby basis, you'll get 40% off regular coach.

Which doesn't mean you'll be flying second class or anything like that.

FORMER STUDENT
ONLY ARRESTEE
By Reid Ashe

There was only one arrest yesterday morning, although it was reported that several others were apprehended and escaped. Allan Fuchs, "71, a former student, was arraigned before Judge Lawrence F. Feloney of the Third District Court of Eastern Middlesex, on charges of unlawful assembly and disturbing the peace.

Fuchs pleaded not guilty to both charges and bail was set at $100. The case was continued to Nov. 14.

Robert Galluzzo, attorney for Fuchs, commented that $100 is a high bond for the charges. He said that Fuchs, a junior from Instistute two weeks ago because of financial need. The $100 bond was available, Galluzzo said.

Galluzzo, age 26, is a member of the Massachusetts Lawyer's Guild. He was present at yesterday's demonstration as a legal observer.

Although he did not witness Fuchs' arrest, Galluzzo explained that Fuchs had been helping a civilian up from the ground, when the civilian and a policeman somehow ended up on the ground. Fuchs was grabbed, probably because the police suspected that he might have jumped the policeman on the ground, Galluzzo explained.
