Faculty postpones lab vote

(Continued from page 1)

The faculty meeting was held because a previous meeting was postponed due to the MIT-IBM contract vote. The first meeting of the new assembly was held Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the Sights. The meeting was to discuss and make recommendations on the types of goal-oriented laboratories that are suitable to the educational and research objectives of the Institute. The meeting was held for the purpose of discussing the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.

At the meeting, the faculty voted to postpone a vote on the laboratory issue for the next week. The vote was taken by a show of hands and was passed by a large margin. The decision was made after several speakers, including representatives of the major student groups in the Institute, expressed their concern about the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.

The meeting was also attended by representatives of the major student groups in the Institute, who expressed their concern about the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.

The faculty meeting was held because a previous meeting was postponed due to the MIT-IBM contract vote. The first meeting of the new assembly was held Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the Sights. The meeting was to discuss and make recommendations on the types of goal-oriented laboratories that are suitable to the educational and research objectives of the Institute. The meeting was held for the purpose of discussing the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.

At the meeting, the faculty voted to postpone a vote on the laboratory issue for the next week. The vote was taken by a show of hands and was passed by a large margin. The decision was made after several speakers, including representatives of the major student groups in the Institute, expressed their concern about the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.

The meeting was also attended by representatives of the major student groups in the Institute, who expressed their concern about the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.

The faculty meeting was held because a previous meeting was postponed due to the MIT-IBM contract vote. The first meeting of the new assembly was held Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the Sights. The meeting was to discuss and make recommendations on the types of goal-oriented laboratories that are suitable to the educational and research objectives of the Institute. The meeting was held for the purpose of discussing the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.

At the meeting, the faculty voted to postpone a vote on the laboratory issue for the next week. The vote was taken by a show of hands and was passed by a large margin. The decision was made after several speakers, including representatives of the major student groups in the Institute, expressed their concern about the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.

The meeting was also attended by representatives of the major student groups in the Institute, who expressed their concern about the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.

The faculty meeting was held because a previous meeting was postponed due to the MIT-IBM contract vote. The first meeting of the new assembly was held Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the Sights. The meeting was to discuss and make recommendations on the types of goal-oriented laboratories that are suitable to the educational and research objectives of the Institute. The meeting was held for the purpose of discussing the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.

At the meeting, the faculty voted to postpone a vote on the laboratory issue for the next week. The vote was taken by a show of hands and was passed by a large margin. The decision was made after several speakers, including representatives of the major student groups in the Institute, expressed their concern about the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.

The meeting was also attended by representatives of the major student groups in the Institute, who expressed their concern about the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.

The faculty meeting was held because a previous meeting was postponed due to the MIT-IBM contract vote. The first meeting of the new assembly was held Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the Sights. The meeting was to discuss and make recommendations on the types of goal-oriented laboratories that are suitable to the educational and research objectives of the Institute. The meeting was held for the purpose of discussing the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.

At the meeting, the faculty voted to postpone a vote on the laboratory issue for the next week. The vote was taken by a show of hands and was passed by a large margin. The decision was made after several speakers, including representatives of the major student groups in the Institute, expressed their concern about the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.

The meeting was also attended by representatives of the major student groups in the Institute, who expressed their concern about the impact of the decision on the future of the Institute.