MIT risks state aid loss

Harvard, Yale, Stanford, MIT and a few other schools have requested an extension of the deadline for signing the contract from April 1 to May 1. The postponements have been granted. The American Association of Universities (AAU) will discuss the matter at its meeting April 21-22. Harvard's president Nathan Pusey is president of the body. Pusey's own Faculty Committee on Admissions and Financial Aid will recommend that he not sign the contract, and Harvard will attempt to cover some $30,000 in scholarships and $25,000 in loans with its own funds.

When MIT President Howard Johnson received the Agency's letter, he forwarded it to Dean of the Graduate School Irwin Sizer, who heads a committee originally set up last spring, when the McClellan Commission subpoenaed the records of students involved in demonstrations who were receiving federal financial aid. (The information was sent after exhaustive consultation with lawyers and the students involved. There have been no subpoenas since. However, MIT is technically required to make such reports voluntarily. A report on how MIT should deal with such matters will probably appear this May.)

"Up the tree"

"However, 'we are really up the tree with regard to the Pennsylvania thing,"' Sizer said when contacted May 8.
The Tech. 88 Pennsylvania students stand to lose aid funds totaling over $100,000 if MIT does not sign the contract. If MIT does sign, however, they will not be the only ones affected. In such a case, Sizer pointed out, every Pennsylvania student would risk a permanent black mark in the state of Pennsylvania if he got arrested and convicted in court, or expelled by the Institute for disruptive activities.

Sizer does not put much stock in the AAU conference's ability to sway the Pennsylvania aid agency, noting that over 99% of the institutions involved had already signed the agreement. He said that MIT's lawyers were "working hard to try to give us the best legal advice."

Deficit

Should MIT lose the Pennsylvania funds, it will be hard pressed to cover the difference. The Institute already faces a $4 million deficit for next year. That could MIT do? Sizer said in jest, "It could always raise tuition, or dip into its endowment."

At present Pennsylvania is the only state to have enacted such a law. There does not appear to have been any serious move to pass such laws in other states, Sizer said.

The Sizer committee will advise President Johnson whether or not to sign the contract late this month, following the AAU conference.

CJAC to hear GM debate of the proposals and plans on the others.

The General Assembly approved the task force report Tuesday night with but one dissenting voice.

CJAC, meanwhile, invited GM and the Project to send representatives to an open meeting to be held next Monday, Naeder, who will be speaking in Krege at 1:30 pm that day on "Consumer Protection and Corporate Responsibility" has also been invited.

The CJAC meeting has been tentatively scheduled for 3:30 in room 9-150. However, CJAC members have been asked to attend Naeder's talk, and will take up business in Krege if enough people wish to remain there.

The meeting will probably be chaired by GM subcommittee chairman James Champy. Testa- tive agenda includes 20 minutes of presentation by the Project rep, 20 minutes of the GM rep, followed by 1 hour of questioning by CJAC members. Questions from the floor will follow, though whether there will be an open mike is not known. CJAC feels that only the GM representative may occur. Should it become excessive, one CJAC member said, it would probably be necessary to adjourn to closed session.

IN THE NAME OF HUMANITY
VOTE NO ON THE QUESTION OF IMMEDIATE WITHDRAWAL FROM VIET NAM

Stop the killing? . . . End the fighting? . . . Peace and freedom for Asia? . . . These are the objectives all Americans should be advocating. But they will never be accomplished by an immediate withdrawal.

From the beginning of the war until the present time, untold atrocities have been committed by the Communist forces in the name of "liberation." These Communist massacres are planned and organized. They are an integral part of Communist war policy rivaling in brutality the atrocities perpetrated by the Nazis in World War II. THE PEACE MOTHERS ARE REWARDED AND PROMOTED, NOT TRIED BY COURTS-MARTIAL.

Whatever America's mistakes have been in Viet Nam, they cannot be remedied by the horrible consequences of immediate withdrawal.

Robert F. Kennedy
Wisconsin State Journal
March 28, 1968

"I think it would be a major mistake to unilaterally withdraw."

"The first consequence, as anyone can foresee, (of immediate withdrawal) will be the cold-blooded massacre of a couple of million South Vietnamese who have put their faith and confidence in the United States."

Joseph Alsop, October, 1969

"While immediate withdrawal of United States forces from the war, it would lose the peace."

Eugene McCarthy
CBS News
March 12, 1968

Most students supported the policy of continued training and arming of the South Vietnamese to defend themselves. Most students do not advocate the dangerous policy of "peace at any price."
