New Tute to rise from MIT ashes

At present, these reports are unconfirmed.

Faculty comment

Faculty reaction is still difficult to gauge. Especially hard hit would be the aeronautical engineering profession, which is most now from the outside world's plummeting demand for their talents. Several faculty members have approached the movement with plans for instruction in "relevance," while others scrambled to be first in line at the unemployment office tomorrow.

The decision to eliminate undergraduate education from the Institute has caused at least one positive reaction from former faculty members released by the decision. Prof. David Maryland,

Chairman of the biology department, and a group of about 75 other junior faculty members held a press conference to announce their plans for a new educational institution.

New MIT

A statement issued after the decision describes the group's plan: "The elimination of undergraduates from the community of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and new legalization of marihuana in Canada have prompted our group to accept the kind offer of funding from the Province of Manitoba and we will shortly begin the process of organizing a new MIT (MIT Institute of Technology) in a land where both mind and knowledge, as well as the campus site, will be permitted almost limitless expansion."

Maryland and his group indicated that the press that all present MIT undergraduates will be automatically admitted to the new MIT to be located in the city of New Cambridge, as yet little more than a quaint tourist area on the Pierre River. Tuition at the new Institute will be $250 per year with the remainder of the funding from industrial contracts.

What do we actually do when we clean your machine?

On manual typewriters, both portable and office, we start by removing all rubber parts, such as platen, feed rolls, feet rest, etc. We remove all cover plates so that the typewriter mechanism is completely exposed.

Finally, we reassemble it, going through normal sequence of adjustments, and lubricate the parts that require heavy lubrication. Now your machine is really clean.

On electric portables, we remove the motor, switch and writer mechanism is completely exposed.
