$10 million deficit projected

By Joe Kashi

MIT's annual deficit of over ten million dollars is a rarity. Under President Johnson's rule, however, the deficit has increased, currently estimated at one million dollars. Johnson's administration has also been criticized for its handling of the budget crisis.

SMMC draws little interest

By Dave Bernstein

The Student Mobilization Committee has been unable to draw a larger crowd. The organization has been criticized for its lack of direction and effectiveness.

Discipline decisions upheld

A review of the cases shows that students expelled last year were not just those who committed serious offenses. President Johnson has underscored that the decision of the cases was not changed.

Former UMOC joins MIT admissions staff

Miss Cindy Helgerson, chosen last month by the Admissions Committee, has been a vocal supporter of the student anti-war movement. She has been a consultant to the Committee to End the War in Vietnam.

By Mike Sisak

SMMC has been criticized for its lack of direction and effectiveness. The organization has been unable to draw a larger crowd.

By Dave Bernstein

The Student Mobilization Committee has been unable to draw a larger crowd. The organization has been criticized for its lack of direction and effectiveness.