On student government

just happen to think that doing a little honest toil for one's community ought to be part of that load.

A note on ideology: I personally am not a revolutionary, nor do I happen to think that the methods of revolution will accomplish anything particularly desirable either in our society or at this institution. I do happen to think that a little intelligence and a lot of sweat can accomplish something. For evidence, I call on anyone who graduated from this place four or more years ago. The changes are not nearly complete. They will not happen by themselves however. We are going to have to get out and push.

If we're good and we're lucky, we might just get out and push. If we are not asked for much, we might just happen to think that doing a little honest toil for one's community ought to be part of that load.

One more thing: the issue of the Student Homophile League's proposed mixer will come up again tonight at the General Assembly's meeting in the Sala. I've talked to a few people about it and found myself in disagreement with just about everyone in one respect. No matter how people felt, pro or con, they seemed to think it was a simple issue. Either it was out of the question that the League be allowed to hold a mixer or it was completely obvious that they should get the space. I personally don't believe the issue to be simple and I hope that nobody forgets that real people, fellow students if you will, both homo-sexual and hetero, are at the center of the issue. The General Assembly did the right thing two weeks ago to table the issue for study and if we are lucky, we may yet set things to rights.

Just a few more people who think it might be fun and part of the methods of revolution might be more than we would have otherwise.

We're not asking for much, just a few more people who think it might be fun and part of their education to try to change this place around. If you happen to be interested in that sort of thing, or if you just want to register a complaint or need help in coping with a hostile environment, give us a call at x2996.
