President panelists set MIT appearance

By Lee Giguere

Joseph Rhodes, Jr., a member of the President's Commission of Academic Freedom, was an accepted invitation to participate in a seminar on Tuesday, October 19.

Also participating in the program were The New York Times Smith; James Ahearn, also a member of the Scranton Committee on Campus Unrest, has accepted the invitation to participate in the seminar on Tuesday, October 19.

The seminar, which is a part of the seminar, was to focus on these issues. The seminar, which is to be held earlier in the day.

Both morning and afternoon sessions have been scheduled as part of the seminar. The seminar committee is being formed, aimed at promoting discussion of student affairs and issues.

The planned topics of the groups are: judicial procedures, the mechanics of student-faculty relations, and student and university values.

The seminar's purpose is to discuss issues that are present at MIT. It is hoped to have members of the General Commissioner of Academic Freedom on the panel.

Rhode and Ahearn, both pointed out, would be able to compare MIT's problems with those of other universities.

As an underclassman at Caltech, Ahearn was the first president of the student body in his sophomore year. He was a member of the National Assn. of students to faculty committees. Ahearn was a student at Harvard in 1968.

Another student at Harvard was the only black member of the Scranton Committee as well as its youngest member.

3 players suspended after TC-BSU game

By Kyle Richardson

Unusual roughness in an intramural football game between TC and BSU was the highlight of the Student Union last Sunday has resulted in the suspension of three players.

Larry Dean (BSU) and Joe Baidu (TC) were charged guilty of participating in a fight they will not be allowed to participate in again this season. Joe Baidu (TC) was suspended for use of IM sports the violence caused.

The touchdowns resulted from a Tuesday night meeting, of the Ex-Division Council. After hearing testimony from BSU and TC members, as well as the referees involved, the Council met in closed session to reach a decision. The touchdown was scored by Gerald Law, Executive Chairman, fighting incidents in football games. As a result of the game, the Council censured Joe Baidu (TC) and suspended him from playing in all games for two weeks.

The football game that sparked the incident was despanished by the author of several of the Council's suggestions. The game was never played.

The high cost of borrowing money was assigned as another factor.

Cost of democracy

"Everything costs money - including democracy," the letter stated, noting that $30,000 had been spent in the election of the co-captains. The letter continued, noting that $30,000 had been spent in the election of the co-captains. The letter continued, noting that $30,000 had been spent in the election of the co-captains.

The letter added that there would also be an effort to hold smaller meetings held earlier in the day.

Both morning and afternoon sessions have been scheduled as part of the seminar. The seminar committee is being formed, aimed at promoting discussion of student affairs and issues.

The planned topics of the groups are: judicial procedures, the mechanics of student-faculty relations, and student and university values.

The seminar's purpose is to discuss issues that are present at MIT. It is hoped to have members of the General Commissioner of Academic Freedom on the panel.

Rhode and Ahearn, both pointed out, would be able to compare MIT's problems with those of other universities.

As an underclassman at Caltech, Ahearn was the first president of the student body in his sophomore year. He was a member of the National Assn. of students to faculty committees. Ahearn was a student at Harvard in 1968.

Another student at Harvard was the only black member of the Scranton Committee as well as its youngest member.

The touchdowns resulted from a Tuesday night meeting, of the Ex-Division Council. After hearing testimony from BSU and TC members, as well as the referees involved, the Council met in closed session to reach a decision. The touchdown was scored by Gerald Law, Executive Chairman, fighting incidents in football games. As a result of the game, the Council censured Joe Baidu (TC) and suspended him from playing in all games for two weeks.

The high cost of borrowing money was assigned as another factor.

Cost of democracy

"Everything costs money - including democracy," the letter stated, noting that $30,000 had been spent in the election of the co-captains. The letter continued, noting that $30,000 had been spent in the election of the co-captains.

The letter added that there would also be an effort to hold smaller meetings held earlier in the day.

Both morning and afternoon sessions have been scheduled as part of the seminar. The seminar committee is being formed, aimed at promoting discussion of student affairs and issues.

The planned topics of the groups are: judicial procedures, the mechanics of student-faculty relations, and student and university values.

The seminar's purpose is to discuss issues that are present at MIT. It is hoped to have members of the General Commissioner of Academic Freedom on the panel.

Rhode and Ahearn, both pointed out, would be able to compare MIT's problems with those of other universities.

As an underclassman at Caltech, Ahearn was the first president of the student body in his sophomore year. He was a member of the National Assn. of students to faculty committees. Ahearn was a student at Harvard in 1968.

Another student at Harvard was the only black member of the Scranton Committee as well as its youngest member.

The touchdowns resulted from a Tuesday night meeting, of the Ex-Division Council. After hearing testimony from BSU and TC members, as well as the referees involved, the Council met in closed session to reach a decision. The touchdown was scored by Gerald Law, Executive Chairman, fighting incidents in football games. As a result of the game, the Council censured Joe Baidu (TC) and suspended him from playing in all games for two weeks.

The high cost of borrowing money was assigned as another factor.

Cost of democracy

"Everything costs money - including democracy," the letter stated, noting that $30,000 had been spent in the election of the co-captains. The letter continued, noting that $30,000 had been spent in the election of the co-captains.

The letter added that there would also be an effort to hold smaller meetings held earlier in the day.

Both morning and afternoon sessions have been scheduled as part of the seminar. The seminar committee is being formed, aimed at promoting discussion of student affairs and issues.

The planned topics of the groups are: judicial procedures, the mechanics of student-faculty relations, and student and university values.

The seminar's purpose is to discuss issues that are present at MIT. It is hoped to have members of the General Commissioner of Academic Freedom on the panel.

Rhode and Ahearn, both pointed out, would be able to compare MIT's problems with those of other universities.

As an underclassman at Caltech, Ahearn was the first president of the student body in his sophomore year. He was a member of the National Assn. of students to faculty committees. Ahearn was a student at Harvard in 1968.

Another student at Harvard was the only black member of the Scranton Committee as well as its youngest member.

The touchdowns resulted from a Tuesday night meeting, of the Ex-Division Council. After hearing testimony from BSU and TC members, as well as the referees involved, the Council met in closed session to reach a decision. The touchdown was scored by Gerald Law, Executive Chairman, fighting incidents in football games. As a result of the game, the Council censured Joe Baidu (TC) and suspended him from playing in all games for two weeks.

The high cost of borrowing money was assigned as another factor.