and have gained knowledge. And they've expressed real joy in being able to participate in the program.

He feels that the program goes beyond the benefit to visiting Black students. "It increases understanding between people...you see, this is a two-way exchange."

...at Fisk, Foster began his Ph.D., in Nashville, Tenn. In his senior year he won a fellowship for his work. He graduated with high honors in physics and in nine months time.

...He was later drafted, and it was when he was in the military that I wanted to give of my experience as an educator. "I often wondered," Prof. Foster says, "is there any way that I can make it possible for the Blacks who are studying and didn't know what physics was all about?"

Foster feels that his experiences as an educator reinforce my belief that there are bright people in this country who may never know that they are bright until somebody just puts the finger on them; but they've expressed real joy in participating in the exchange program.

..."There are Black students...who need somebody to put the finger on them; but not just put the finger on them, but also provide them an opportunity to learn -- and that's what we're doing here [in the exchange program]."

Foster is enjoying his stay at MIT. "I often wondered," he said, "how would it be to work and teach in a place like this. And I believe it meets with what I expected it to be like: bright students, serious-minded students, a lot of freedom on the part of the students.

This is what we have against blades.

A shaver that shaves as close as any other rechargeables.

This is what we have against other rechargeables.

A rechargeable that gives up to two times as many shaves per charge as any other rechargeables.

Our Rechargeable Tripleheader 45CT has all the features of our regular Tripleheader. It has three Microgroove™ floating heads. And eighteen rotary blades that continuously sharpens itself to cut down on both sides of your face. And a hidden pop-up trimmer for neat sideburns and mustaches. It also has some special features all its own. A Shaver Count that automatically counts your shaves and tells you when to recharge. A Charge Indicator that lights up when it's recharging. And, of course, the Rechargeable can shave with or without a cord.

Now what rechargeable can compete with that?
