Gymnasts top Lowell Tech.

By Jarvis Middleton

After its 119-110 loss to New Hampshire Wednesday, the Techmen rallied to roll over Lowell Tech. The final score was 112-85. The meet, held at Lowell, was marred by several costly injuries, but the Techmen managed to win every event.

Ken Gerber '71 was by far the most outstanding member of the team. Gerber finished first on the rings with a score of 8.6, breaking the MIT record he had previously set. He also took first on the parallel bars, breaking the prior MIT record with a score of 8.45. To all of this he added a second place on the side horse to lead the team in scoring with 23.35 points.

Larry Ball '74 scored 19.3 points finishing second on the parallel bars and third on the high bar. Dave Beck '72 continued his winning streak by breaking his record on the floor exercises with a score of 8.2. Dave is now undefeated in floor exercises and qualifies for the NCAA's.

Neil Davie '74 put together a winning routine on the high bar and added a score of 7.6 to the team score in the vaulting. George Succi '73 added the third score of 3.7. Paul Beyer '73 and Dennis Dubro '73 added their first and third place scores to Gerber's second on side horse to capture all titles in that event. Beyer scored 7.35 while Dubro scored 5.3. RIch Daub '71 and John Assioti '74 combined their first and third place scores to win the vaulting event. Daub scored a fantastic 8.5 and Austin scored 7.65. Dubo also placed second in floor exercises with a score of 6.05.

Parallels bars was the area of the engineers' most impressive performance, with MIT taking first through fourth places. According to coach Lilly, "The team did one hell of a job and every man deserved what he got." Gerber and Beck stayed above qualifying for the NCAA's with their above 8.0 scores.
