Gym squad conquers Yale

The MIT gymnastics team, returning from its competition schedule, scored a decisive victory over the seasoned Yale squad, coached by Olympian Don Tousy. With individual first places in five events, and team supremacy in four events, the gymnasts justified the grueling workouts scheduled by Coach Lilly had imposed during IAP, scoring 116 points to Yale's 110.

Dave Beck led the engineers in floor exercise, the first event of the meet. Despite some questionable judging, Beck took first place with a score of 7.95. Raysh DuBb and Bob Barrett followed closely behind with four and fifth places respectively.

Going into the side horse with an edge, MIT's Mike Sadow claimed his first place with a score of 7.80, well over his high school rec.

As a freshman in 1972, Dave Beck came to MIT from a school best of 6'2", competing under a half-twist. Scoring an excellent 7.92, Beck came in second to his MIT elder, Mike Wood, in the second highest score.

Double winners steer swimmers over NYU

Having lost their first two meets during IAP, the MIT swimming team traveled to New York on Tuesday in an attempt to recover from their lost matches.
The result was a 74-79 victory over NYU. Standouts for Coach Charlie Batterman's swimers were freestylers Ken Epstein, John Levan, and Ken Berber, Dennis Dubro, won the 500
stroke.

Co-captain Larry of the MIT community interested in helping with the variety or junior varsity gymnastics program as a coach should contact Fran O'Brien, varsity baseball coach, at the DuPont Athletic Center.

The Tech shooters again demstrated their skill and combination of accuracy and speed, which they used to overcome the NYU team.

Three opponents, Mike Asher-man '77, leader on last year's fence squad, set back two Indians, as did Jon Sachs '71.

On Saturday, February 6, the fencing team meets Duke and Yeshiva in the DuPont Athletic Center.
