Joint health program admits first students

By Lee Giguere

The first group of students to become directly involved in the Harvard-MIT program in Health Sciences and Technology were admitted two weeks ago amid a flurry of press releases and public deliberation. However, Doctor living living...