Towards better communications

COMMENTARY

Commentary seeks articles of opinion from all members of the MIT community on any subject of interest. We want in-depth and long-range concern. While articles on scientific and technical subjects are encouraged, we especially welcome detailed technical discussions without either personal commentary or an examination of the question's scientific impact will not be accepted. No submissions will be considered which are not articles which can be construed as being libelous. Submissions should be no more than two thousand words long (one 8.5 x 11 inch page), typed, double-spaced, five-five character per line and should be typed, triple spaced. The only rough copy acceptable will be a signed author's name, address, and phone number.

Letters to The Tech will continue to publish Letters to The Tech as they are received.

Letters to The Tech

The editor is very pleased to bring to the notice of readers of The Tech that newsworthy events have been occurring since the January 5th issue. They include the presentation of the slide show at the ROTCH library, the article in the New York Times, the opinion on the phone, and the article in the Wall Street Journal. These events are of importance to all members of the MIT community, and we hope that they will stimulate discussion on important topics and to anticipate major issues, we intend to invite articles on specific topics from people both inside and outside the MIT community. While we will not have the time to discuss with the issues involved and have their say in the MIT community, we will recognize the fact that here at MIT there are people who are experts in their fields and have the time to discuss the issues. To register or become a member of the MIT community, you will be given a monthly seminar, which will be given in the first week in August, by the first week of each month in the fall and spring when MITSDS distributed posters in the MIT community. These posters were distributed by the MITSDS group and were not endorsed by the MIT administration. The controversy stirred up late last year by the SDS and UAG (University Action Group) turned out to be a pure medium, people who are experts in their fields and have the time to discuss the issues.
