MIT's world champions

By Fred Shapiro

On Wednesday, March 29th, the first world Tiddlywinks championship was won by the American team as Bill Renke '73, made a difficult pot from just below the rim of the cup to clinch MIT's victory over South- hampton University, the European champions. The final score of the match, which took place in Southampton, a middle-sized city on England's southern coast, was 123-101.

The top pair for MIT was Renke and Jim Martin '72, who scored 37 points, followed by Tim Schiller '72 and J. Christ Schiller '72, who made a difficult pot from just below the rim of the cup to clinch MIT's victory over South- hampton University, the European champions. The final score of the match, which took place in Southampton, a middle-sized city on England's southern coast, was 123-101.

The match with South- hampton was the first one ever sanctioned by the International Tiddlywinks Associations as a "world Championship." A trophy of some sort will now go to MIT, which will hold it until its title is taken away by some future champion. Hopefully the British will come to Cambridge next year to continue the international rivalry.
