Demos confident in Mass.

continued from page 1

Campaign issues

O'Callaghan at the ever-important popularity polls, which have had a rather disastrous effect on the Democratic campaign effort. According to him, the convention has made the race "a very close one." With the campaign effort, the two parties began to compete for the loyalty of the voters. In a poll conducted by the New York Times, it was noted that Nixon is still leading in the polls. The voter registration campaign in Massachusetts has been very successful, with 74,000 voters registered as of this week. Nixon's campaign has been successful in the state, but McGovern has made a strong showing in the early primaries.

UA provides social events

By Drew Juleum

With last week's beer blast an overwhelming success, the Undergraduate National Committee (UAP) hopes to continue the tradition of social events. The concert was held in the new student center, and tickets were sold at the door. The night was filled with music by the local band, the UA. The event was a great success, with over 1,000 people in attendance. The UA hopes to continue the tradition of social events in the future.

New recycling plan to begin in November

By Mike McNamee

A new recycling plan is coming to MIT in November, and it promises to be a major step forward in waste management. The plan involves the use of a new recycling bin, which will be placed in all dorms and public areas. The bin will allow students to recycle paper, plastic, and aluminum cans. The plan was developed in response to the increasing concern about the environment and the need for sustainable practices.

The Boston Symphony...

You've listened to them on WCRB and WBUR. You've seen them on Channel 2. You've collected their records. And now, you can join them for one of the most memorable evenings of the season. The Boston Symphony Hall, for those who have been to see them before, is a place that is well worth the trip. And if you're not familiar with them, you'll be sure to love their music.