FIVE CENTS

Reeves leads UOMC race

By Tom Birney
The 1972 Ugly Man on Campus contest moves into its closing hours today. The campaign to determine MIT's most repulsive creature ends at 7 tonight.

UMOC is conducted by Alpha Phi Omega to raise contributions - this year for CARE.
The judgment of this coveted title is elected on the basis of the number of votes received. Votes are in the form of contributions—one penny, one vote.

Following last year's highly successful UMOG which netted over $3000, this year's contest has brought forth another fine crop of the Institute's worst. As one APO member so aptly stated, "There are 10 of ugly people running." The 1972 campaign begins Monday with campaigning in the lobby of Building 10. On Thursday the Tech will announce the results.

Reeves leads UOMC candidates - please offer voting from the lords of the second floor. Above, the same three access a young lady and plead their respective ugliness.

Trio enlivens Bldg 7: "jazz in a cathedral"

By Ken Davis
In line with the new policy of making the Building 7 lobby a more lively place, a jazz trio offered a session Monday afternoon.

The trio, consisting of Professor Roy Lamsa, Professor Warren Rohsenow, and Mr. Arthur Litchfield, performed jazz of the 1920's and 30's from 12:15 to 1 p.m.

According to Professor Lamson, the trio had not rehearsed, playing mostly tunes from 40 or 50 years ago. Professor Lamson compared performing in Building 7's high-ceilinged, balcony lobby with "playing jazz in a cathedral." He was extremely pleased with the reception given the trio by students, which included an offer from a bus player to join the group.

Moments Cat Woman of the Moon was shown to put students in an "ugly" frame of mind. Leading the field of contenders as of Thursday evening is Curtis Reeves, sponsored by the Undergraduate Association, Reeves claims, "It is for ugly, and I am UAP." In second is the Appointed Man, sponsored by Phi Sigma Kappa, who won the office of President of the Neanderthal Man's Ugly Man in the Universe by breaking endless mirrors.

Steve Zeitewitz, Hook, is running on "handsome ugliness," and claims to be the only naturally ugly candidate. Sponsors: by Bexley Hall Rowdies and Thursday, Dan Den, "A" dorm.

Last Monday night at 5:30 pm the Student Community was met to hear and decide the final disposition of students allegedly involved in the ROTC building occupation last spring. Since most of the defendants were boycotting the hearings, only one of the eleven appeared, and all the hearings were completed by 8:30 pm.

At the outset of Monday's hearings Professor Charles A. Myers, Discipline chairman, stated that no testimony would be permitted which did not pertain solely to the issue of the accused's presence in the occupied area after the reading of the trespass notice.

Discussions of the charges against him, since it was in doubt that he was present in the occupied area after the reading of the trespass notice, were confined to the actions of the accused within the occupied area, and testimony as to the motivations of the accused for their occupation. In anticipation of the boycott by the defendants, Myers cited the portion of the Judicial Procedure empowering the committee to act even if the accused chose not to appear.

The ten hearings in which the defendants did not appear were all almost identical in form. Myers took notice of the fact that the defendant was not present, and called for witnesses for the aggrieved.

In each case only one witness would actually testify, and several others would submit statements, to the effect that they had seen the accused in the occupied area after the trespass notice was read. The Deans and administrators who either testify (Please turn to page 3)
