MIT considers plan for tuition deferment

Edith Efron will speak on the topic of
Bias in the News Media

Edith Efron is a contributing editor to TV Guide and the author of two books: the well-known book, The News Telauters (1971), which documented bias in network news reporting; and TV CBS Tried to Kill a Reporter, which describes the tactics used by CBS to try to discredit her earlier book. Miss Efron is an advocate of a laissez-faire approach to solving the problem of news bias, in which the government controls over broadcasting which cause bias in radio and television news coverage.
