Light crew wins Geiger Cup

Last Saturday morning, amidst the floating human effluent of the Schuylkill River, MIT's lightweight coxswain Mitch Minshall '74 six, Dan Greene '74 a new JV of: Chris Dippel '75 f

A spur of the moment plan was hatched. The varsity crew nervously roughing their through they were more concrete expectations either, although they were more convinced ahead, and Columbia six with Cornell finishing two seconds behind. But then the race judge came up in the launch and announced that Cornell had been disqualified for not being out of their lane. The varsity had won.

All that remained for the clean sweep of the day was a JV win over Cornell. That race was effectively decided in the first forty strokes, as MIT's JV pounded into an easy lead and blew Cornell off the water by 27 seconds. As the bus started the long trip back to Boston, one of the weary newcomers noticed that "winning sure is better than losing."
