Aldonza

Don Quixote

Owade's musical events

by Stephen Owade

The grandly titled Cambridge Symphony Brass Ensemble played a program of Renaissance and Baroque brass music in the MIT building 7 lobby on October 16th at noon. The six or so seconds of reverberation would make much of most music, but it is ideal for the repertoire played on this program. I found the performance reasonable, though somewhat adequate.

The conductors' ensemble had trouble with its balance, however, and important lines often submerged. In addition, they did a fine job in their first concert performance.

Aldonza

Don Quixote

Owade's musical events

by Stephen Owade

The grandly titled Cambridge Symphony Brass Ensemble played a program of Renaissance and Baroque brass music in the MIT building 7 lobby on October 16th at noon. The six or so seconds of reverberation would make much of most music, but it is ideal for the repertoire played on this program. I found the performance reasonable, though somewhat adequate.

The conductors' ensemble had trouble with its balance, however, and important lines often submerged. In addition, they did a fine job in their first concert performance.

The grandly titled Cambridge Symphony Brass Ensemble played a program of Renaissance and Baroque brass music in the MIT building 7 lobby on October 16th at noon. The six or so seconds of reverberation would make much of most music, but it is ideal for the repertoire played on this program. I found the performance reasonable, though somewhat adequate.

The conductors' ensemble had trouble with its balance, however, and important lines often submerged. In addition, they did a fine job in their first concert performance.

Aldonza

Don Quixote

Owade's musical events

by Stephen Owade

The grandly titled Cambridge Symphony Brass Ensemble played a program of Renaissance and Baroque brass music in the MIT building 7 lobby on October 16th at noon. The six or so seconds of reverberation would make much of most music, but it is ideal for the repertoire played on this program. I found the performance reasonable, though somewhat adequate.

The conductors' ensemble had trouble with its balance, however, and important lines often submerged. In addition, they did a fine job in their first concert performance.

Aldonza

Don Quixote

Owade's musical events

by Stephen Owade

The grandly titled Cambridge Symphony Brass Ensemble played a program of Renaissance and Baroque brass music in the MIT building 7 lobby on October 16th at noon. The six or so seconds of reverberation would make much of most music, but it is ideal for the repertoire played on this program. I found the performance reasonable, though somewhat adequate.

The conductors' ensemble had trouble with its balance, however, and important lines often submerged. In addition, they did a fine job in their first concert performance.

Aldonza

Don Quixote

Owade's musical events

by Stephen Owade

The grandly titled Cambridge Symphony Brass Ensemble played a program of Renaissance and Baroque brass music in the MIT building 7 lobby on October 16th at noon. The six or so seconds of reverberation would make much of most music, but it is ideal for the repertoire played on this program. I found the performance reasonable, though somewhat adequate.

The conductors' ensemble had trouble with its balance, however, and important lines often submerged. In addition, they did a fine job in their first concert performance.

Aldonza

Don Quixote

Owade's musical events

by Stephen Owade

The grandly titled Cambridge Symphony Brass Ensemble played a program of Renaissance and Baroque brass music in the MIT building 7 lobby on October 16th at noon. The six or so seconds of reverberation would make much of most music, but it is ideal for the repertoire played on this program. I found the performance reasonable, though somewhat adequate.

The conductors' ensemble had trouble with its balance, however, and important lines often submerged. In addition, they did a fine job in their first concert performance.

Aldonza

Don Quixote

Owade's musical events

by Stephen Owade

The grandly titled Cambridge Symphony Brass Ensemble played a program of Renaissance and Baroque brass music in the MIT building 7 lobby on October 16th at noon. The six or so seconds of reverberation would make much of most music, but it is ideal for the repertoire played on this program. I found the performance reasonable, though somewhat adequate.

The conductors' ensemble had trouble with its balance, however, and important lines often submerged. In addition, they did a fine job in their first concert performance.

Aldonza

Don Quixote

Owade's musical events

by Stephen Owade

The grandly titled Cambridge Symphony Brass Ensemble played a program of Renaissance and Baroque brass music in the MIT building 7 lobby on October 16th at noon. The six or so seconds of reverberation would make much of most music, but it is ideal for the repertoire played on this program. I found the performance reasonable, though somewhat adequate.

The conductors' ensemble had trouble with its balance, however, and important lines often submerged. In addition, they did a fine job in their first concert performance.