The UA News welcomes any articles, letters, or announcements of general interest to MIT students. They will be published on a space-available basis. Send any such information to the Undergraduate Association, President's Office, W20-401, attn.: Chris Trevey. Material must be received by Thursday of the previous week to make Tuesday's issue.

This section is sponsored and edited by the Undergraduate Association President's office, which takes sole responsibility for its contents.

With large dorms having eight. A constitutional amendment is being drafted, and will be fully publicized before the next Dormcon meeting.

The second item discussed was rules and regulations for the dorms. There have been a series of meetings over the past spring and summer of Judicial Committee members and dorm officers to discuss possible changes in the wording and enforcement policy of certain housing rules, chiefly concerned with pets and permanent guests. Tom Martin, Dormcon Chairman, explained that it was a Dean's Office goal to have all pets out of the dorms by September of 1975, with the exception of those owned by housemasters and tutors. Health, safety, and humanitarian reasons were cited. The Dean's Office also feels that permanent guests are a burden on the system and an unfair imposition on neighboring residents, and should therefore be banned and enforced.

Several Dormcon members felt that enforcement of these rules would be difficult, especially without the support of dorm Judicial Committees. Tom explained that the Dean's Office wants to get rid of antiquated rules or regulations they no longer need. The problem is being reviewed;

with large dorms having eight. A constitutional amendment is being drafted, and will be fully publicized before the next Dormcon meeting.

Discussion of facilities and scheduling (and bulletin boards) was the final item on the agenda. The 24-hour Coffeehouse needs workers:

1) 12mid — 12 noon
2) MUST be MIT Students
3) Come in and fill out form

The UA News welcomes any articles, letters, or announcements of general interest to MIT students. They will be published on a space-available basis. Send any such information to the Undergraduate Association, President's Office, W20-401, attn.: Chris Trevey. Material must be received by Thursday of the previous week to make Tuesday's issue.

This section is sponsored and edited by the Undergraduate Association President's office, which takes sole responsibility for its contents.

The second item discussed was rules and regulations for the dorms. There have been a series of meetings over the past spring and summer of Judicial Committee members and dorm officers to discuss possible changes in the wording and enforcement policy of certain housing rules, chiefly concerned with pets and permanent guests. Tom Martin, Dormcon Chairman, explained that it was a Dean's Office goal to have all pets out of the dorms by September of 1975, with the exception of those owned by housemasters and tutors. Health, safety, and humanitarian reasons were cited. The Dean's Office also feels that permanent guests are a burden on the system and an unfair imposition on neighboring residents, and should therefore be banned and enforced.

Several Dormcon members felt that enforcement of these rules would be difficult, especially without the support of dorm Judicial Committees. Tom explained that the Dean's Office wants to get rid of antiquated rules or regulations they no longer need. The problem is being reviewed;

with large dorms having eight. A constitutional amendment is being drafted, and will be fully publicized before the next Dormcon meeting.

The second item discussed was rules and regulations for the dorms. There have been a series of meetings over the past spring and summer of Judicial Committee members and dorm officers to discuss possible changes in the wording and enforcement policy of certain housing rules, chiefly concerned with pets and permanent guests. Tom Martin, Dormcon Chairman, explained that it was a Dean's Office goal to have all pets out of the dorms by September of 1975, with the exception of those owned by housemasters and tutors. Health, safety, and humanitarian reasons were cited. The Dean's Office also feels that permanent guests are a burden on the system and an unfair imposition on neighboring residents, and should therefore be banned and enforced.

Several Dormcon members felt that enforcement of these rules would be difficult, especially without the support of dorm Judicial Committees. Tom explained that the Dean's Office wants to get rid of antiquated rules or regulations they no longer need. The problem is being reviewed;

with large dorms having eight. A constitutional amendment is being drafted, and will be fully publicized before the next Dormcon meeting.

The second item discussed was rules and regulations for the dorms. There have been a series of meetings over the past spring and summer of Judicial Committee members and dorm officers to discuss possible changes in the wording and enforcement policy of certain housing rules, chiefly concerned with pets and permanent guests. Tom Martin, Dormcon Chairman, explained that it was a Dean's Office goal to have all pets out of the dorms by September of 1975, with the exception of those owned by housemasters and tutors. Health, safety, and humanitarian reasons were cited. The Dean's Office also feels that permanent guests are a burden on the system and an unfair imposition on neighboring residents, and should therefore be banned and enforced.

Several Dormcon members felt that enforcement of these rules would be difficult, especially without the support of dorm Judicial Committees. Tom explained that the Dean's Office wants to get rid of antiquated rules or regulations they no longer need. The problem is being reviewed;

with large dorms having eight. A constitutional amendment is being drafted, and will be fully publicized before the next Dormcon meeting.

The second item discussed was rules and regulations for the dorms. There have been a series of meetings over the past spring and summer of Judicial Committee members and dorm officers to discuss possible changes in the wording and enforcement policy of certain housing rules, chiefly concerned with pets and permanent guests. Tom Martin, Dormcon Chairman, explained that it was a Dean's Office goal to have all pets out of the dorms by September of 1975, with the exception of those owned by housemasters and tutors. Health, safety, and humanitarian reasons were cited. The Dean's Office also feels that permanent guests are a burden on the system and an unfair imposition on neighboring residents, and should therefore be banned and enforced.

Several Dormcon members felt that enforcement of these rules would be difficult, especially without the support of dorm Judicial Committees. Tom explained that the Dean's Office wants to get rid of antiquated rules or regulations they no longer need. The problem is being reviewed;

with large dorms having eight. A constitutional amendment is being drafted, and will be fully publicized before the next Dormcon meeting.

The second item discussed was rules and regulations for the dorms. There have been a series of meetings over the past spring and summer of Judicial Committee members and dorm officers to discuss possible changes in the wording and enforcement policy of certain housing rules, chiefly concerned with pets and permanent guests. Tom Martin, Dormcon Chairman, explained that it was a Dean's Office goal to have all pets out of the dorms by September of 1975, with the exception of those owned by housemasters and tutors. Health, safety, and humanitarian reasons were cited. The Dean's Office also feels that permanent guests are a burden on the system and an unfair imposition on neighboring residents, and should therefore be banned and enforced.

Several Dormcon members felt that enforcement of these rules would be difficult, especially without the support of dorm Judicial Committees. Tom explained that the Dean's Office wants to get rid of antiquated rules or regulations they no longer need. The problem is being reviewed;

with large dorms having eight. A constitutional amendment is being drafted, and will be fully publicized before the next Dormcon meeting.

The second item discussed was rules and regulations for the dorms. There have been a series of meetings over the past spring and summer of Judicial Committee members and dorm officers to discuss possible changes in the wording and enforcement policy of certain housing rules, chiefly concerned with pets and permanent guests. Tom Martin, Dormcon Chairman, explained that it was a Dean's Office goal to have all pets out of the dorms by September of 1975, with the exception of those owned by housemasters and tutors. Health, safety, and humanitarian reasons were cited. The Dean's Office also feels that permanent guests are a burden on the system and an unfair imposition on neighboring residents, and should therefore be banned and enforced.

Several Dormcon members felt that enforcement of these rules would be difficult, especially without the support of dorm Judicial Committees. Tom explained that the Dean's Office wants to get rid of antiquated rules or regulations they no longer need. The problem is being reviewed;

with large dorms having eight. A constitutional amendment is being drafted, and will be fully publicized before the next Dormcon meeting.

The second item discussed was rules and regulations for the dorms. There have been a series of meetings over the past spring and summer of Judicial Committee members and dorm officers to discuss possible changes in the wording and enforcement policy of certain housing rules, chiefly concerned with pets and permanent guests. Tom Martin, Dormcon Chairman, explained that it was a Dean's Office goal to have all pets out of the dorms by September of 1975, with the exception of those owned by housemasters and tutors. Health, safety, and humanitarian reasons were cited. The Dean's Office also feels that permanent guests are a burden on the system and an unfair imposition on neighboring residents, and should therefore be banned and enforced.

Several Dormcon members felt that enforcement of these rules would be difficult, especially without the support of dorm Judicial Committees. Tom explained that the Dean's Office wants to get rid of antiquated rules or regulations they no longer need. The problem is being reviewed;

with large dorms having eight. A constitutional amendment is being drafted, and will be fully publicized before the next Dormcon meeting.

The second item discussed was rules and regulations for the dorms. There have been a series of meetings over the past spring and summer of Judicial Committee members and dorm officers to discuss possible changes in the wording and enforcement policy of certain housing rules, chiefly concerned with pets and permanent guests. Tom Martin, Dormcon Chairman, explained that it was a Dean's Office goal to have all pets out of the dorms by September of 1975, with the exception of those owned by housemasters and tutors. Health, safety, and humanitarian reasons were cited. The Dean's Office also feels that permanent guests are a burden on the system and an unfair imposition on neighboring residents, and should therefore be banned and enforced.

Several Dormcon members felt that enforcement of these rules would be difficult, especially without the support of dorm Judicial Committees. Tom explained that the Dean's Office wants to get rid of antiquated rules or regulations they no longer need. The problem is being reviewed;