In Case of Insomnia -

Guests & Pets

By Storm Kaufman

The office of the Dean for Student Affairs has received complaints from students, although it is not yet clear how thorough a job they will be able to do.

The maximum number of guests or pets must be in their boudoirs again and they claim that they intend to eliminate all of the house pets. What usually happens is that the DSA gets several complaints at a time and even if the masters, or tutors and suddenly decides that this is a problem that must be solved.

Of course, the DSA is going to have to go out of its way to try to keep the house governments from interfering in their house matters. Still, we do as much as we can to make things as comfortable as they can. The Institute House rules already clearly state that there are to be no permanent or permanent guests in the dorms. The question that personally arises is how and to what extent the DSA will require the guests to be out by next year. What usually happens is that the DSA gets several complaints at a time and even if the masters, or tutors and suddenly decides that this is a problem that must be solved.

The DSA can strictly enforce the rules. They cannot tell the students how to handle cases on an individual basis, as is done in some city apartments. The decision can involve house-keeping and to what extent the DSA will require the guests to be out by next year.

Nathan Cook of MacGregor felt that pets are some trouble and should not be told how to conduct their personal relationships.

Cook admits that pets are some trouble and should not be told how to conduct their personal relationships.

As most dorm residents resent any inter-complaints from students, parents, house-governments, the two by next year. What usually happens is that the DSA gets several complaints at a time and even if the masters, or tutors and suddenly decides that this is a problem that must be solved.

The DSA can strictly enforce the rules. They cannot tell the students how to handle cases on an individual basis, as is done in some city apartments. The decision can involve house-keeping and to what extent the DSA will require the guests to be out by next year.

The Deans have the permanent guest/ Pet in their bonnets again and they claim that they intend to eliminate all of the house pets. What usually happens is that the DSA gets several complaints at a time and even if the masters, or tutors and suddenly decides that this is a problem that must be solved.

The DSA can strictly enforce the rules. They cannot tell the students how to handle cases on an individual basis, as is done in some city apartments. The decision can involve house-keeping and to what extent the DSA will require the guests to be out by next year.

By Jack Anderson

City United Festive Syndicate

WASHINGTON - President Ford's inflation fighters are worried that Americans are too deeply in debt. American consumers own over a creditor a staggering $185 billion, not even counting home mortgages. This triple the consumer debt only 15 years ago. Many Americans have their psyches committed for the next couple years to pay off their obligations. The creeping inflation is cause for alarm. This will make it difficult for them to pay back their borrowed money, and many Americans are having trouble paying off their loans. Loan delinquencies have shot up to alarming 26 percent. As estimated 165,000 Americans will be forced to declare personal bankruptcy and thus themselves at the mercy of their creditors this year.

It was precisely this kind of economic crisis which caused the last great depression. People couldn't pay their debts, businesses failed and the economic chain reaction started.

Yet the decline of the 1930's hasn't changed the borrowing habits of most Americans. Not even sky-high interest rates are keeping them from buying on credit. They are simply taking out longer-term loans. As long as they can keep the monthly payment down, many Americans don't seem concerned about the terrible cost of borrowing.

Terrorism Weapons

Intelligence reports warn that Libya's new leader, Colonel Muammar Qaddafi, is buying up new Soviet weapons for terrorist use. He has ordered sophisticated weaponry, including shoulder-fired missiles, beyond the needs of his own military. The Central Intelligence Agency has learned that he intends to contribute some of these arms to terrorist groups around the world.

Qaddafi fancied himself the leader of a wide revolutionary movement that is both anti-communist and anti-capitalist. He is in touch with some of the world's most dangerous terrorists, including Palestinian extremists, who have received arms from Qaddafi in the past.

The Soviets also are shipping arms to Syria in huge quantities. Intelligence reports claim some of these weapons were diverted from Egypt, which is now on the Kremlin's blacklist.

In the past, the Syrians also have supplied Palestinian terrorists with arms. But President Ford's administration has become more moderate since his dealings with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and has developed a closer relationship with Jordan's King Hussein. Of course, these trends won't have much effect on the Soviets' efforts.

The Turks also have supplied Palestinian terrorists with arms. But the Turks have been more moderate since his dealings with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and has developed a closer relationship with Jordan's King Hussein.

In the past, the Turks have been more moderate since his dealings with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and has developed a closer relationship with Jordan's King Hussein. Of course, these trends won't have much effect on the Soviets' efforts.

The Turks also have supplied Palestinian terrorists with arms. But the Turks have been more moderate since his dealings with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and has developed a closer relationship with Jordan's King Hussein.

In the past, the Turks have been more moderate since his dealings with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and has developed a closer relationship with Jordan's King Hussein. Of course, these trends won't have much effect on the Soviets' efforts.

In the past, the Turks have been more moderate since his dealings with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and has developed a closer relationship with Jordan's King Hussein. Of course, these trends won't have much effect on the Soviets' efforts.

In the past, the Turks have been more moderate since his dealings with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and has developed a closer relationship with Jordan's King Hussein. Of course, these trends won't have much effect on the Soviets' efforts.

In the past, the Turks have been more moderate since his dealings with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and has developed a closer relationship with Jordan's King Hussein. Of course, these trends won't have much effect on the Soviets' efforts.

In the past, the Turks have been more moderate since his dealings with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and has developed a closer relationship with Jordan's King Hussein. Of course, these trends won't have much effect on the Soviets' efforts.