In Case of Insomnia-

Director of Health Systems Regulation. Students have also proposed that various agencies be consolidated under a new Department of Health. If this bill is passed, it may be a step toward a more efficient and responsive health system for the state.

The creation of the post of Director of Health Systems Regulation is an important step in addressing the health needs of the state. With this new position, the state will be able to better coordinate and manage its health services.

In conclusion, the proposal to create a new Department of Health is a valuable addition to state government. It is a step toward a more efficient and responsive health system for the state. I urge all senators and representatives to support this proposal and to work together to make it a reality.

Eleanor L. Bartlett
Institute Archivist
Librarian

Violence lacking in 1974 campaigns

By Peter Peckarsky

The fever pitch of political rhetoric and action, some of it violent, has subsided across America. It is strange to be saying this in the middle of a Congressional campaign, but let there be no mistake. There is the rhetoric of the political year, which we are experiencing now, and the public must be aware of the reality of the citizenry which supports the rhetoric. The good columns have described briefly amusing concern over personal economic well-being and disbelief that Washington politicians will do anything soon to ameliorate the major problems confronting the nation. I observe that our President is overdue and more than welcome. Last week this reporter went on the campaign trail with President Ford and considered it a wise decision. I also suggest an affirmative amendment. I also suggest an affirmative vote. One of the arguments against is that the major bones of the proposal lie on the Capitol steps. Vote yes, unless you think every-